

FOR the first time, the wets in Congress have adopted the policy of resisting enforcement legislation. Hitherto they have preferred to be for enforcing the law while it remained the law; or, if they objected to a particular proposal of enforcement, they have been content to argue and vote against it, and permit themselves to be outvoted. But now they threaten a noisy filibuster, and use the power of obstruction possessed by a minority near the end of a session to prevent the passage of measures which it is known the overwhelming majority would support.

THE mask at least is off. It is not an attempt to change the law. They know that can't be done. It is an effort to undermine the law, under the pretended guise of changing it. And that can be done. The legal situation is irrevocable, but the practical one is not. There is no way to get legal booze, but it can be made easier to get illegal booze. The law can be changed, but it can be brought into disrepute and disuse. We can be made a "wet" nation, not lawfully, but lawlessly. And they who care more for their booze than they do for the integrity of American institutions are industriously endeavoring to do so.

IT IS strange how the perspective of distance changes things. Probably not one American in a hundred thousand knows or cares who Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti are, and the few who do know are reminded of it by some dispatch from Moscow, Montevideo or Buenos Aires. For the world has come to the radicals of the world that these two unknown persons, now under sentence for murder, were convicted by a frame-up of capitalist America against their revolutionary activities. So revolutionists elsewhere bomb American legations, or upset their own governments, in an effort to intimidate American capitalism into withdrawing its conspiracy. Meaningless as a whole does not even know that Sacco and Vanzetti exist, and, if told of them, has no opinion except that they ought to have a fair trial, on the murder charge against them, to be punished if proved guilty, and released if not. To the distant communist vision, this is an issue that is shaking America. To most American eyesight, it is invisible.

SUNU OTANI, lord abbot of the West Hongwanji Buddhists, and the most exalted clerical in Japan, whose gracious personality many of us had the opportunity of appreciating on his recent visit to America, reports to his own people that while America is incomparably in advance of Japan materially, Japan is far ahead spiritually. In religion, he says, America has produced nothing in the modern era. Buddhism, Christianity, Islam, Mormonism and Christian Science. However, even in that it is ahead of Japan, all of whose religions are imported except Shintoism, and that is not a religion. The worst feature of America, he says, is its prosperity. War riches have brought on spiritual decadence. Men greedy for gold, women chiefly interested in how little they can get away with, and everybody bent on amusement and luxury, do not make for the cultivation of the soul. And to the lord abbot, that is important.

The lord abbot may or may not be right. But at least it is good for the soul to see ourselves as a "heathen" observer sees us.

THE General Federation of Women's Clubs will continue its campaign against "drudgery" in the home. Practically, what it means is to adjust the middle-class home to middle-class ideas, in the servantless age. The woman whose husband works no harder at home than he does in the shop. Certainly she works nowhere near as hard as her mother did. The woman whose husband heads a great industrial establishment or professional office can still have her establishment at home, with fewer servants, but enough, or can live in a hotel apartment. It is the woman whose husband has a stenographer who herself has to go without a maid. The husband does not sweep his own office nor write his own papers, but the wife must clean her own floors and cook the family meals. The middle-class home depends on the existence of a lower class, from which servants can be drawn. Now that such servants as are left are decidedly not low class, and are beyond her means even if there were enough of them, she must do the work once stigmatized as "drudgery." The drudges who did it are gone.

What the final outcome will be, no one yet knows. It may mean the extinction of what was once the middle-class home, and the substitution of something collective, in which there will still be cooks and housekeepers, but they will not be servants. The immediate effect, however, is clear. It is the improvement of the mechanical equipment of the house. There will still be work to do, but, with proper tools, work need not be drudgery.

Soldiers Called To Probe Killing

WILLIAMSON, Va., June 24.—State troopers and county officers left here this afternoon for Jenny's Creek, an isolated camp near Kernit, following receipt of reports that a band of white-robed men had killed a woman and her daughter near there this morning. Conflicting stories were received here. First reports asserted Mrs. James Johnson, wife of a school teacher, and her daughter, Jean, 4, were slain when the supposed band surrounded and fired upon their home.

HOUSE READY FOR VOTE ON MONEY BILL

Committee Reports Second Deficiency Measure for Activities of Government

CASH FOR BUILDINGS

Enormous Sums Included in Recommendation Made For Ensuing Fiscal Year

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 24.—The important second deficiency bill, containing thousands of appropriations for government activities and for public building in the fiscal year 1927, starting July 1, was reported to the house today by the appropriations committee.

It will be taken up tomorrow, passed this week and sent to the senate for passage early next week, under present plans.

The measure includes about $30,000,000 for the first year's buildings in the $165,000,000 five-year public buildings program; all appropriations for the District of Columbia government, and $375,000 to build a new roof and to make other repairs to the White House.

Partial Appropriation List

The appropriations include: Prosecution of Teapot Dome and Elk Hills oil lease suits by special counsel, $100,000.

Regulation of commercial aviation, $250,000.

Establishment of aids to aerial navigation, $300,000.

Transcontinental air mail (fiscal year 1926), $75,000.

Refund of Chinese Boxer indemnity, $92,023.

Starting work on $10,000,000 U. S. embassy-legation building program, $435,000.

Enforcing narcotic laws, $2,686,760.

Refunding clear and automobile taxes 1925 and 1927, $5,250,000.

Money for California Forests

Roads and other improvements for the Angeles, Cleveland, Santa Barbara and San Bernardino National forests, in Southern California, $100,000, on condition equal amount is paid by local or state government.

Construction of Coolidge dam across Gila river, near San Carlos, Ariz., $725,000.

Reimbursement government reclamation fund for Yuma project, Arizona-California, $637,336; for operation and maintenance same project, $50,000.

For consular building, Amoy, China, $20,000, in addition to unexpended balance 1921 appropriation.

For 1926 expense of the National Home for Disabled Volunteers, Santa Monica, Calif., branch, $20,000, and clothing for all branches, $25,000.

Construction of quarters at military posts, $2,250,000.

To pay the widow of Representative John E. Raker, California, $10,000.

For the following, appropriations now available, are extended and contracts not exceeding the sums given below are authorized, all for post offices and federal buildings:

Globe, Arizona, $165,000; Red Bluff, Calif., $85,400; Fallon, Nev., $69,500; Goldfield, Nev., $75,000; East Las Vegas, N. M., $151,000.

It is also provided that the secretary of the treasury shall set aside "sufficient sums" to provide for the projects at Seattle, Wn., San Pedro, Calif., and Juneau, Alaska, and that he shall have surveys of these projects made and recommendations thereon submitted to congress for approval.

WILL PRESENT OPERA

HOLLYWOOD, June 24.—Charles Wakefield Cadman's Indian opera, "Shanewis," will be presented tonight at the Hollywood bowl. The oriental ballet, "Scheherazade," also will be staged.

PROBERS CALL WHEELER IN SECRET CONFERENCE

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, June 24.—Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league, today held another secret conference with the senate primary investigating committee, presumably about his charge that brewers raised a slush fund in the $3,000,000 Pennsylvania primary.

As soon as the committee met to resume its hearing, Chairman Reed called Wheeler into the adjoining room and a stenographer was called in.

Mother of 3 Hanged For Murder

MANCHESTER, Eng., June 24.—Mrs. Louise Calvert, 33-year-old mother of three children, was hanged at 9 a. m. today, for the murder of her landlady, whom she had strangled to death. It was the first time since 1923 that a woman has been executed in England. Thousands of persons had signed a petition for a reprieve but the home office refused to intervene.

SENATE TURNS DOWN HAUGEN FARM AID BILL

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, June 24.—The Dawes-McNary-Haugen farm relief bill was defeated in the senate today.

The measure was opposed by the administration and eastern senators. It already had been defeated in the house.

Defeat of the measure paved the way for consideration of administration substitute bills.

The vote was: Against, 45; for, 39.

Voting for the bill were: Republicans, 23—Cameron, Capper, Cummins, Curtis, Deneen, Gooding, Harrell, Howell, Johnson, Jones (Washington), La Follette, McMaster, McNary, Means, Norris, Norbeck, Oddie, Pino, Robinson (Indiana), Schall, Standfield, Watson, Williams.

Democrats, 15—Ashurst, Bratton, Caraway, Copeland, Dill, Heflin, Jones (New Mexico), Kenrick, McKellar, Mayfield, Neely, Simmons, Stock, Tyson and Wheeler.

Farmer-Labor, 1—Shipstead.

Voting against were: Republicans, 24—Bingham, Borah, Butler, Coudens, Dale, Edger, Ernst, Fernald, Fess, Gillett, Goff, Hale, Kayes, Lemont, Metcalf, Moses, Pepper, Phipps, Reed (Pennsylvania), Sackett, Shortridge, Wadsworth, Weller, Willis.

Democrats, 21—Bayard, Blease, Broussard, Bruce, Edwards, George, Gurney, Glass, Harris, Harlan, King, Ramsdell, Reed (Missouri), Robinson (Arkansas), Sheppard, Smith, Stephens, Swanson, Trammell, Underwood, Walsh.

The bill failed because many southern Democrats refused to join a coalition other Democrats from the south formed with the farm bloc, after a cotton provision had been adopted.

Several senators who were considered members of the farm bloc, like Borah and Lemont, also declined to support the measure.

13 OF CREW DIE AS SCHOONER BURNS

GLOUCESTER, Mass., June 24.—Thirteen members of the crew of the schooner Falmouth, out of Gloucester, are believed to have been drowned when the boat was destroyed by fire off Cape Island. Details of the fire were learned today when Capt. Eric Carlson and eight men landed on Sable island.

The ship was abandoned, the captain said, after the gasoline tanks had exploded from a fire that started in the deck house.

The Falmouth was owned by the United Fisheries company, of Gloucester.

None Killed When Cars Are Derailed

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 24.—Six coaches of passenger train No. 21, on the Santa Fe railroad, were derailed shortly after noon between Vaughan and Encino, in the eastern part of the state, according to reports reaching headquarters here. None of the passengers was killed. Whether there may be any serious injuries is unknown.

Supplies in Magnitude

In super magnitude alone this demonstration shattered every existing record. The number of persons, the distance from which they came as pilgrims, the length of the procession and the number of actual participants outdid any ovation in history.

The seminary grounds, set down like a medieval monastery and surrounded by the bustling civilization of 20th century America, were so densely packed at points of vantage that it was impossible for many to sit down. Under a scorching sun, they stood with reverently bowed heads, singing and chanting and praying in honor of their Universal King.

And still they came—thousands upon countless thousands, they marched double quick time and 12 abreast up the roads that lead from the railroad stations. Traffic experts estimated that 400,000 had arrived by train since sunrise and another 500,000 by automobile. Fully 100,000—perhaps more—had reached the grounds by this morning, camping under the stars awaiting the great Eucharistic congress.

Fierce Traffic Crushes

Traffic crushes were terrific. Trains moved closely together at a snail's pace. Automobiles moved double file along carefully guarded oneway highways. Cross traffic was not allowed to interfere. Railroad stations as far distant as the south side of Chicago—more than 40 miles removed—were densely populated with thousands seeking transportation to the grounds.

Between 100 and 150 persons were taken to emergency hospital wards to be treated for injuries.

STORM CAUSE OF PANIC AT CHURCH MEET

Rain Drenches Million at Closing Session of Catholics at Mundelein, Ill. THrong IN STAMPEDE

Police Unable to Check Multitude in Mad Rush For Shelter of Chapel

(By United Press)

MUNDELEIN, Ill., June 24.—Rain and hail, accompanied by streaks of lightning, late today threw the closing program of the International Eucharistic congress into confusion.

Approximately one million persons were drenched in the storm, which broke suddenly just as the gorgeous spectacle was being unfolded.

Thousands rushed for shelter in the stately chapel and dormitories of the seminary and police found it impossible to stop the stampede.

The solemn procession of priests, bishops and cardinals was in the midst of the three-mile journey around beautiful Lake St. Mary's when the storm broke.

Deluge of Rain, Hail

Rain and hail fell in a deluge. The procession almost halted, but finally moved on, slowly and majestically—the cardinals smiling bravely as the rain beat unmercifully upon their gorgeous vestments—some of them relics of the Middle Ages.

The crowd, seeing the high clergy of the church thus smiling through the storm, was restored to calm and police soon succeeded in stopping the stampede.

The rain stopped after 15 minutes and the procession continued. When the downpour was at its very peak, the announcer called through the amplifiers to the huge congregation of pilgrims and asked them to sing "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name."

Without a moment's hesitation, the old hymn was picked up in every corner of the seminary grounds. Thirty minutes after the downpour, the sun reappeared and scorched the crowd. It was warmer than at mid-day.

Singing, Praying Multitude

A singing, praying multitude of 1,000,000 people, gathered together from all lands of the earth, today answered the age-old question: "If Christ returned to earth, what recognition would he give them?"

In a babel of tongues, the like of which has never been heard in the new world, this great throng gave honor to the Blessed Eucharist, which they believe is the actual, living Christ. It was a demonstration surpassing any tribute ever paid the world's conquering kings.

Banked on either side of a three-mile "Via Gloria"—The Road of Glory—choking a beautiful inland lake, and reaching far back into the wooded area that shelters this seminary—prince, prelate and layman participated in this most magnificent of religious spectacles.

COLLEGE GIRL MURDER CASE MAY BE SOLVED

(By United Press)
SEATTLE, June 24.—The fiendish murder of pretty Sylvia Gaines, 22-year-old college girl, is solved, Sheriff Mat Starwich, of King county, announced today.

He proved the "friend" theory is wrong, declared Starwich.

His statement followed an all-night session, in which sheriff's deputies grilled the girl's shell-shocked father, Wallace "Bob" Gaines, and his friend, Louis Stern.

Stern previously had talked with police concerning the whereabouts of Sylvia's father on the night of June 16, when the girl was attacked and slain on the shores of Green lake, a pond bordered by one of Seattle's municipal parks.

Stern, at the conclusion of the all-night examination, was held as a witness.

Gaines were permitted to go home with his brother, William Gaines, member of the county commission.

Sheriff Starwich, outside of intimating that he would make sensational disclosures today, would not enlarge upon his statement.

2 Nations Form Fisheries Board

SAN PEDRO, June 24.—The newly formed International Fisheries commission, which consists of two Mexican representatives and two American representatives, will maintain permanent headquarters here, it was announced today.

Under the arrangement agreed upon at the first meeting of the body, two commissioners will be available here at all times.

At the first hearing of the body, a committee representing fishermen, canneries and fresh fish dealers in this district petitioned for a change in certain conditions which are existing between this country and Mexico at the present time.

MEXICAN ON TRIAL FOR PETEET SHAME SUICIDES

(By United Press)
SAN DIEGO, June 24.—Charged with an offense in connection with the "shame suicides" of Thomas M. Peteet, his wife and two daughters, last February, Zenaido Llanos, former chief of police in Tia Juana, Mex., is on trial before a Mexican judge in the border town today, Mayor Federico Palacios announced.

According to the Tia Juana mayor, the trial opened yesterday and an announcement of the findings of court is expected soon.

Luis Amador, saloon proprietor, and one of his bartenders are co-defendants. The Peteet girls were attacked following an evening of dancing and drinking in company with Llanos and Amador, it was established by an investigation following the family's suicide.

A Chinese hotel keeper and a porter at the saloon were held originally, but were released following a preliminary hearing.

A former member of the Tia Juana police force also is held as an accessory for failure to report his knowledge of facts in the case.

MOB FIGHTS FOR GLIMPSE OF "SISTER"

Entire Population of Arizona Mining Town Is in High State of Excitement

COMB DESERT WASTES

Searchers for Kidnapers Shake Heads on Return From Wilds of Mexico

(By United Press)

DOUGLAS, Arizona, June 24.—Against its background of desert wastes overgrown with mesquite and catpaw, this picturesque little city was thrown into a high pitch of excitement today over the fact that Aimee Semple McPherson, missing evangelist, has come to life here.

Milling about, keyed to excitement, the entire population of 11,000, half Americans and half Mexicans, abandoned its business and usual pursuits to swarm about the streets. The focal point of interest was the hospital, operated by the Calumet Arizona Mining company, in which Mrs. McPherson is a patient.

Motly Throng Gathers

The crowd, now fighting for a chance to see the Angelus Temple pastor, is a far different one than that which Mrs. McPherson has so long for her flock in Los Angeles.

There were Americans, tanned to a golden brown from the burning sun of the desert, some hatless, others wearing the tall Mexican sombreros; Mexican children running around half dressed, their black eyes shining with the most fevered excitement Douglas has known for a long time; Mexican women with babies in their arms, awe-struck at the presence in their city of the "miracle woman," whom they tell one another, in their native tongue "talks with God."

The crowd surges against the iron fence around the hospital and is controlled by police officials. Finding they cannot gain admittance, the curious men, women and children walk about the streets, talking about the sensation that has placed Douglas before the eyes of the country.

Another Point of Interest

But to the newspapermen here covering the story and to the officials directing the search for the alleged kidnapers, there is another point of interest than the little mining company hospital.

They look to the desert wastes about Douglas, to the mysterious recesses of the back country, where grim-faced rangers are combing the territory for miles around to track down any clues that may be found of that mysterious trio of kidnapers, a woman named "Rose," a man named "Steve" and another man, who has not yet been called by name.

Picturesque indeed are these desert searchers, men whose faces are lined deep and whose skin has been burned almost black, men for whom the desert holds no terrors, for they have conquered it long ago.

Dressed in clothing that, strong as it is, is torn by the mesquite and catpaw of the desert, wearing wide-brimmed hats, they are the "two-gun" men who are used to grappling with nature and the country where, even in this day, there are those who do not recognize such a thing as man-made laws.

Searchers Shake Heads

Expedition after expedition returns from the desert. The searchers shake their heads, reporting they have found nothing yet which would uncover the whereabouts of those daring kidnapers, who, in broad daylight, seized Aimee Semple McPherson.

Here's What Aimee Wore On Long Hike

DOUGLAS, Ariz., June 24.—The clothes worn by Aimee Semple McPherson when she arrived here after her asserted escape from kidnapers were viewed today by newspapermen.

They included: A light-colored house dress, slightly soiled, with collar and cuff bordered in white, with pockets, one of which was torn.

Pair of new shoes, worn slightly. Cheap princess slip and combination. Slip trimmed in pink and blue lace.

Corset. Silk stockings with holes in them.

It was in this costume that the evangelist claims to have hiked 15 miles after escaping from her captors in Old Mexico.

The clothes, she told officers, were given her in San Francisco to replace the green bathing suit she wore at the Venice beach on May 18, when she vanished.

(By United Press)

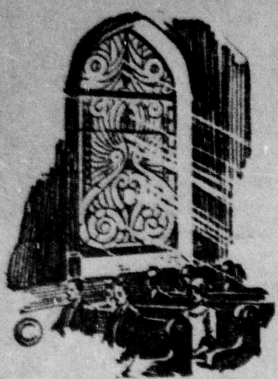

DOUGLAS, Arizona, June 24.—Aimee Semple McPherson, noted evangelist and faith healer, collapsed while posing for newspaper photographers here today.

The evangelist was carried back into the hospital by police officers and ordered kept in seclusion until she had recovered from her faint.

A tour into Old Mexico, which Mrs. McPherson was to make with officers this afternoon in an effort to find the hut where she declares she was held captive by kidnapers, was abandoned.

Can't Find Hut

He told the officials that there is no such house within 40 miles of the spot described by Mrs. McPherson.

At noon, another posse reported to police headquarters they had penetrated the desert for four miles beyond location of the hut, as given by Mrs. McPherson, and had failed to locate it.

Another posse was dispatched to "back trail" a second time into the "Niggerhead mountain" district with the hope of finding the shack.

Alleged Woman Bunko Artist Is Reported In S. A.

A woman, who sells a dressmaking chart and two dressmaking lessons for $10, is the latest alleged bunko artist reported in Santa Ana, according to Chief of Police Claude Rogers, who today issued a warning to housewives to beware of the woman who approaches them with any such proposition.

The activities of the woman were revealed today, when Mrs. R. E. Temple, 331 East First street, reported to Rogers that she had purchased the dressmaking chart and had later become suspicious and had visited the address given by the woman who had sold her the chart. According to Mrs. Temple, she ed obligingly for the pictures.

After the dramatic reunion with her family, Mrs. McPherson received Captain Cline and Prosecutor Ryan in closed conference to relate details of her sensational story of kidnaping by a gypsy band.

Posse Hunts Abductors

Meanwhile every arroyo, canyon and mountain top along the Mexican border was searched by a posse of citizens and officers for the mysterious adventurers who Mrs. McPherson declared lured her from the surf on May 18 and held her captive in Mexico more than a month for $500,000 ransom.

One group of searchers, under command of Mexican officials, returned here this morning after combing the hills and desolate flats of Sonora, southwest of Agua Prieta, for many futile hours, and reported they were unable to locate the mystery shack where Mrs. McPherson said she had been held for many days.

Captain Cline and Prosecutor Ryan announced that a request may be made of the U. S. army for use of 400 negro troops held at Fort Douglas, here. If the troops are called upon, they will comb the entire border line between the east and west borders of Arizona north and south across the line for a distance of 20 miles.

Will Question Three

Three principles in the dramatic kidnaping story told by Mrs. McPherson were to be questioned after a full statement has been obtained from the evangelist, Captain Cline announced.

J. B. Anderson, border line taxi driver, who found the evangelist in a dazed condition in Agua Prieta, at 3 o'clock, Wednesday morning, was among those to be questioned.

Sheriff J. F. McDonald, of Cochise county, who holds the clothing and shoes worn by Mrs. McPherson in her 20-mile walk across the desert, will be quizzed also. The evangelist's clothes, according to a signed statement by Sheriff McDonald, were not damaged when Mrs. McPherson was brought to the hospital here. The sheriff said the clothes showed little signs of the wear and tear to be expected from a long hike through the mesquite and cactus found in the rugged territory where Mrs. McPherson said she had been walking.

An unidentified Mexican, who claims he saw Mrs. McPherson, or a woman resembling her, near his home in the Ariz. Prieta territory, about midnight Wednesday, was called for questioning also.

American and Mexican officials here feel certain that Mrs. McPherson's abductors are still in the foothills along the international boundary line.

Home by Special Train

Mrs. Kennedy announced this morning that she was chartering a special train to return her daughter to Southern California. It is planned to have Mrs. McPherson address her multitude of followers at the temple in Los Angeles Sunday morning, Mrs. Kennedy said.

"If Mrs. McPherson was a victim of kidnapers, as she claims, I shall investigate along criminal lines and bring about proper prosecution of her abductors," said Prosecutor Ryan.

"If she disappeared of her own accord, we are going to get the true story concerning the voluntary disappearance and reveal it to the public. There could be no criminal action, however, in that event."

If Mrs. McPherson gives an accurate and detailed description of her asserted kidnapers, Captain Cline will order his men to check on Los Angeles clues which have indicated the abductors' operating in the California city for several months before the evangelist disappeared.

Mother Is Skeptical

Mrs. Kennedy was unable to accept the kidnaping story as already told to authorities and newspapermen by her daughter.

"It doesn't seem possible to me that those men could snatch my daughter up so quickly, unseen," she said. "Sister McPherson never listened to strangers, much less carry out their wishes without my advice and protection."

"Sister was rarely out of our sight, and when she was she was closely and heavily guarded by men from the temple."

"When she was in the Holy Land, I had secret service men guarding her. If they were going to get her they would have done it in the city, not at the beach."

"How she was enticed into the hands of abductors is something she alone can explain to my satisfaction."

Aimes In Good Spirits

The evangelist was in good spirits and fully recovered from her long trek over desert sands, following her escape "somewhere in Mexico" from her asserted abductors.

"I want to return to the Temple in time to preach Sunday morning," she said.

"I feel like one resurrected from the dead," she said, intimating this may be the theme of her sermon.

"God was with me during the entire journey. When I felt I could go on no longer, I knelt and prayed for strength. At times I felt everything going black, but I prayed for Him and He heard."

Mrs. McPherson said her captors threatened to kill her at one time. "And at another time they threatened to sell me as a slave to a Mexican whom they introduced as Felipe," she said.

The evangelist declared she believed the sole object of her kidnaping was to obtain the $500,000 ransom they demanded. She is firm in the belief that divine intervention saved her from the dead.

GIRL'S CONDITION REPORTED BETTER

Miss Vivian Mitchell, 18, of 509 South Broadway, Santa Ana, was reported improved in the Santa Ana Valley hospital late this morning. The girl was brought to the hospital late yesterday afternoon, after collapsing in Laguna Beach, just after leaving the water, where she had been swimming.

According to reports from Laguna, the girl had been swimming near the new raft, anchored about 200 feet from shore, beyond the breaker line. She is reported to have slipped and fell on the raft and severely injured her head. The girl then entered the water and swam ashore. Reaching shore safely, she is said to have dropped on the sand, unconscious.

Efforts of physicians to revive her failed and she was rushed to the Santa Ana hospital, where she later regained consciousness.

SON OF BORDER TOWN POLICE CHIEF JAILED

When Motorcycle Officer Hershhey of Santa Ana, and State Motorcycle Officer Pat Hurd arrested Roly Hardwick, 16, after a telephone message from Anaheim, early this afternoon, little did they think they were upsetting the elopement plans of the young son of the Calexico police chief.

The officers, acting on information from Anaheim, where young Hardwick is said to have crashed into a machine and failed to stop, arrested the youth and a girl companion, Margaret Velish, 16, of 507 Jiles avenue, Calexico. Both are being held in jail here.

Hurd took young Hardwick to the state traffic office here to give him a test for a driver's license. The youth became confused in answering questions and it is said that he admitted he and the girl had stolen a large sedan from Calexico late last night, driven to Los Angeles and were returning to San Diego. From San Diego, young Hardwick explained, they had planned to continue the trip to Douglas, Ariz., to get married.

Ben Shor, 18, of 5716 Harold Way, Hollywood, was taken into custody with young Hardwick and Miss Velish, but declared that he merely had been given a lift by the couple while on his way from Los Angeles to Santa Ana.

STORM CAUSE OF CATHOLIC PANIC

they suffered in the crush. None of them was believed seriously hurt, however.

Police officials estimated that more than 200,000 pilgrims had found it impossible to gain entrance to the grounds.

But it was not in size alone that today's spectacle paid honor to the Eucharistic King. It was the almost unbelievable reverence displayed by so great a congregation of people that attracted favorable comment from the princes of the church.

Police Handle Crowds. No shouting and loud demonstrations. No cursing of police officers, who struggled valiantly to keep the crowds within bounds.

But everywhere there was singing of the praises of God. Everywhere there was praying and thanksgiving.

Little children, joyously singing the age-old chants of the church of their fathers, were found everywhere on the grounds.

Cripples—some aged and others children—were wheeled about in their chairs wherever wheeling was possible. Other invalids lay on blankets under the burning rays of the mid-day sun, praying softly and reverently as the great pageant was unfolded before their eyes.

The great babel of voices was still almost immediately as the procession of clergymen started moving from the chapel and the princes of the church took their places on cardinal thrones which flanked the mammoth, specially constructed outdoor altar.

Papal Legate Step Higher. John Cardinal Bonzano, papal legate to the Eucharistic congress, took his place on a throne one step higher than the others, signifying his high ranking as personal representative of Pope Pius XI.

Clouds, deep and white—the color of purity—appeared in the sky as the services were started. They brought welcome relief to the vast congregation, which had been suffering under the hot sun.

A bit of a breeze came up and tossed out the flags from their high standards.

The crowd pressed forward as fresh thousands were unloaded at the station just without the seminary grounds and sought in vain to reach positions from which to view the spectacle.

JAIL MEXICAN AFTER SLAYING OF SON-IN-LAW

"I guess I must die for what I have done."

That is what Ramon Flores, 49, is said to have told Orange county deputy sheriffs, as he walked from his home, near Seventeenth street and Garden Grove road, late last night, with his hands above his head.

Just a short time before, Flores is alleged to have shot and killed his son-in-law, Fortunato Roderiques, and seriously wounded Aurelio Roderiques and Mrs. Senaida Cordero, of 110 Dangle street, Belvedere.

Twenty minutes after Orange county officials had received a call from Los Angeles to watch for the asserted murderer, Flores was in the Orange county jail.

Flores went to Los Angeles late last night with his three sons, Blas Flores, 16, John Flores, 17, and Juvenito Flores, 19, to get his wife, according to the tale he is said to have told Deputy Sheriffs Dan Adams, Jimmie Smith and Clyde Fowler and State Motorcycle Officer Pat Hurd.

According to the Mexican's reported story, his wife left him five years ago. "I had no one to make sandwiches for my lunch," deputies said he told them. The trip to Los Angeles was made for the express purpose of bringing back his wife, he is said to have claimed, adding that he went equipped to kill his wife if she refused to accompany him home.

When his wife refused to return with him, he is alleged to have drawn his gun and fired at her. His son-in-law, however, is said to have jumped in front of the gun and to have been instantly killed.

Los Angeles authorities arrived here today to take Flores and his three sons to Los Angeles. The three sons will be held as witnesses. It is expected that a murder charge will be preferred against Flores.

Shoemaker, Not Bootlegger, Is New Police Find

MEDFORD, Ore., June 24.—It is a fact recorded in history that the term "bootlegger" came when the hootch dispensers of Indian territory carried the potent fluid in boot legs in order to avoid U. S. marshals.

But Medford has the one and only shoebox bootlegger.

ple McPherson, at Venice beach and defied the world by keeping her captive for the long weeks that have stretched themselves out since May 13.

These men are baffled by some of the facts as told by Mrs. McPherson.

They are especially puzzled over the fact that the clothing in which she arrived in Douglas does not show a single trace of having come into conflict with the vicious mesquite or catpaw of the desert.

They show their own clothing, torn and damaged by the desert forces, and shake their heads as they hear again that Sheriff J. F. McDonald, of Cochise county, has issued a signed statement, saying that Mrs. McPherson's clothing shows no signs of wear and tear.

Want More Details

These searchers, the men who are making the official search, seek further information from the Angelus temple pastor, eager for more definite information with which to "backtrail" still farther into the recesses of Old Mexico.

This morning, Mrs. McPherson gave some further details of the story she has repeated a dozen times since she arrived in Douglas. "I think," she said, "that they were gypsies. I am sure this woman 'Rose' is a gypsy."

Mrs. McPherson has had experience with gypsies, for recently she converted an entire tribe of the nomads.

It developed that Mrs. McPherson has told that, when she was kidnaped at Venice, she was taken as far as San Francisco in her bathing suit, before she was given any other clothing.

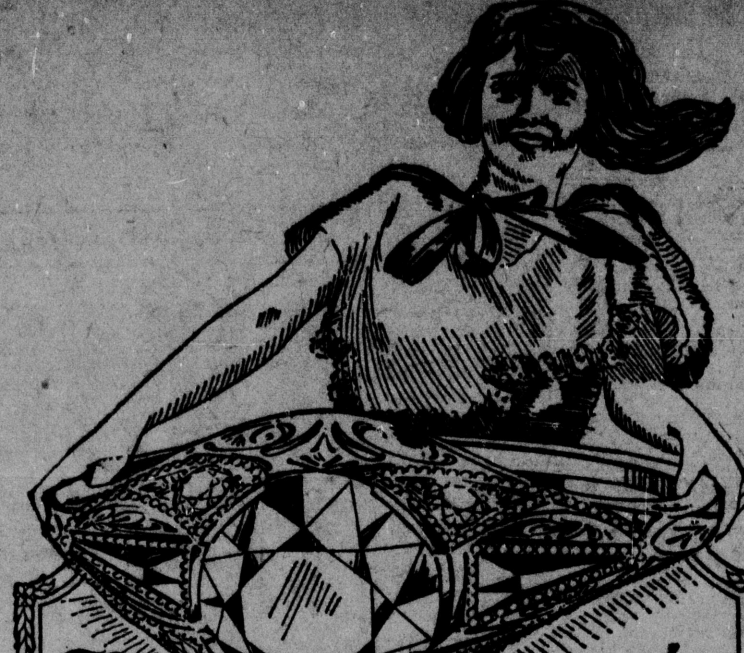

Almea Can't Remember "I can't remember what happened," she says. "They drugged and drugged me."

"I preached to them continuously, never stopping, thinking to reach their hearts with God's message."

"My prayer for myself constantly was, 'Guide Thou me on.'"

At the hospital today, Mrs. McPherson's prayer was: "God above, I am alive and free."

Mrs. McPherson also announced this morning that she wishes to express her gratitude for the marvelous treatment that she has been accorded by the people of Arizona and in order to do this she will preach from the rear platform of the train on the return trip to Los Angeles.

STUDEBAKER Smashes Transcontinental Record

Stock Model Studebaker Big Six Crosses Continent in 86 Hours and 20 Minutes

Another victory in the conquest of time and space! New York and San Francisco linked closer together by the triumph of a Studebaker Big Six "Sheriff," which has crossed the continent in 86 hours, 20 minutes, breaking the best previous record by 16 hours, 25 minutes.

A stock car, driven by Ab Jenkins and Ray Peck, both of Salt Lake City, was used for the 3,471-mile run. The car was a stock model in every respect except for a 48-gallon gasoline tank and changes in the top, back seat and tire carrier.

Jenkins is a Salt Lake City contractor, whose recreation is cross-country driving. The run was made in his own car on his own initiative. Peck is a personal friend who has accompanied him on several record-breaking dashes over the Rockies.

Verified by Western Union

The Big Six "Sheriff" left New York at 2:07 a. m. (Eastern Daylight Saving Time), June 14th, and arrived in San Francisco at 12:27 p. m. (Pacific Standard Time), June 17th. It passed through the Central West during one of the heaviest rainstorms of the century. Western Union officials verified both the time of departure and arrival. At all times, consideration was given to the rights of motorists, and in passing through cities speed regulations were carefully observed. High speed was made through the night on deserted country roadways.

The fastest train time between Manhattan and the Golden Gate is 88 hours. But this does not include time for making connections. The fastest time in which the trip between New York and San Francisco can be made by rail is 92 hours and 45 minutes, elapsed time.

Contrast this unhampered travel over glistening rails and perfect roadbed with the tremendous odds of road and weather that confronted the Studebaker every mile of its drive across the continent. Yet its total elapsed time was 6 hours, 25 minutes less than required by rail.

LOG OF RUN
Distance Covered	3,471 Miles
Time	86 Hours, 20 Minutes
Average Speed	40.2 Miles Per Hour
Fastest Regular Time, by Train (including connections)	92 Hours, 25 Minutes
Beat Fastest Time by Train	6 Hours, 25 Minutes
Previous Record	102 Hours, 45 Minutes
Beat Previous Record	16 Hours, 25 Minutes

Many Obstacles Encountered
Heavy rainstorms, fog, deep mud—even floods—were encountered from the time the car left New York until it passed Cheyenne, Wyoming. Later came the long pull over the Continental divide, with steep climbs and precipitous descents. Yet, the Studebaker surmounted every difficulty with effortless ease.

This striking demonstration of Studebaker stamina and dependability comes on the heels of another notable achievement for the Big Six "Sheriff." On April 12th, a stock Studebaker Big Six smashed by 7 hours and 26 minutes the best previous record of overland travel between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City.

Only a car of such superlative qualities could have made such a showing. Although there are fifty makes of American cars on the market, only seven equal the Studebaker Big Six in rated horsepower! And they sell for two to four times its price.

Proof of Stamina
It is doubtful if you will ever demand such severe service from your car as this transcontinental run required. Yet it proves why the Studebaker Big Six performs so unflinchingly in every day use—why hundreds of owners have testified mileage records ranging from 100,000 to 300,000 miles.

The Studebaker Big Six is the fastest selling high-powered car today because it has established beyond question its greater value, economy and reliability. Facilities for One-Stop manufacture, which eliminate the profits of outside parts and body makers, enable Studebaker to build a finer car and sell it to you at a lower cost.

Any two of these Big Sixes may be purchased for less than any other single car of equal rated horsepower. Duplex Roadster, $1755; Sport-Roadster (4-pass.), $1915; Sport Phaeton ("Sheriff"), $1845; Duplex Phaeton, $2070; Club Coupe, $1925; Sedan (5-pass.), $2190; Coupe, $2360; Sedan (7-pass.), $2465; Brougham, $2410; Berline, $2545.

Young Singers Plan New Organization
With the intention of developing an appreciation and knowledge of music, a group of the younger singers of the community met last night to organize a choral class under the leadership of Frederic Huttman, eminent eastern artist who is now connected with the Anaheim conservatory.

Twenty-three members were present and the number is expected to increase rapidly. Meetings will be held each Wednesday night at 7 o'clock at the conservatory in the neighboring city. The members will devote their time to the work of such composers as Gullbert, Cadman, Barker etc. and later will take up the works of Victor Herbert. Eventually they will present several tuneful light operas.

Those interested in joining the group may obtain further details from Miss Lorene Croddy, telephone 1748-R.

CHAMBER LAUNCHES MOVE TO ACQUIRE CLEVELAND FOREST ACREAGE FOR MEMORIAL PARK

Through a resolution adopted unanimously by the directors of the Greater Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce this morning, a movement was launched for the creation of an Orange County American Legion Memorial park at Potrero Los Pinos, in the Cleveland National forest.

Potrero Los Pinos is located about 46 miles from Santa Ana, in the hills above San Juan Hot Springs, close to the Riverside county line and adjacent to the proposed San Juan Capistrano-Elsinore highway.

It is understood that the movement started this morning by the Santa Ana chamber will be followed up by the Orange Chamber of Commerce and legion posts of the county.

Congressman Phil Swing, at the next session of congress, will introduce a bill asking that the government set aside an acreage in the Cleveland National forest adjoining the Potrero for a County Legion Memorial park. Once congress does this, the forest service will be asked to appropriate funds for a highway. The county will be asked to match this fund and N. T. Edwards, of the California state highway commission, has declared that he will endeavor to have the state appropriate funds to be used in the construction of the road.

The Potrero is owned by the Jerome O'Neil estate.

Potrero Los Pinos is said to be one of the most beautiful natural spots in Orange county. Large oak trees abound therein and running water through it makes it a most desirable place for a park. Nearby is Pinos peak and the upper part of Trabuco canyon, covered over with a forest of pines, white oaks, coast maples and spruce.

Once the park is established and the road constructed, it is believed that with very little effort a scenic drive over the top of Saddleback peak would follow, making it one of the most beautiful drives in the Southland.

The session of the chamber directors this morning was cut short by the arrival here of the booster expedition from Los Angeles, when 80 merchants of the metropolis came here to spend four hours in visiting merchants and looking over the nearby orchards.

Organization of a Santa Ana chapter, devoted to the protection of animals, is under consideration. It was learned today from persons interested in the recent fight against the proposed city "rabies" ordinance, which, as first proposed, would provide for the compulsory vaccination of all licensed dogs in the city. The existence of such a chapter in Santa Ana not only would enable lovers of animals to keep in touch with current legislation and public measures affecting animals, but also provide an effective instrument for supervision and control of law enforcement in these premises, it was explained.

Patricia, who are spending the summer in Hollywood, will visit with Mr. and Mrs. Clyde H. Ashen, 1516 French street, this weekend. Mr. Murphy and Mr. Ashen will go to Anaheim on Sunday to attend joint initiation ceremonies of the Knights of Columbus. The Murphys were also in Santa Ana Tuesday evening, Mr. Murphy coming down for the E. C.'s regular meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Dawes of Modesto are visiting Mr. Dawes' mother and sister, Mrs. Sarah Dawes and Miss Roselyn Dawes of 821 French street, Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dawes, Miss Dawes and her mother moved to Pasadena and Del Monte returning to Santa Ana Wednesday.

Mrs. Alice Doolittle and Mrs. J. F. Fletcher were guests yesterday of Mrs. Effie Standard of 114 South Broadway.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Ellick of South Broadway spent Sunday in Los Angeles with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. McCrary, of Wichita, Kas., arrived yesterday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Felix Aubuchon, 614 East Third street. Mrs. Cray and Mrs. Aubuchon are sisters.

Santa Ana friends have received cards from Mr. and Mrs. Theo A. Winbiger, from New York City, stating that they were to start Monday, June 19, on their homeward journey.

Briggs and daughter, Janet, 644 North Broadway, went to San Francisco Tuesday where they were to join a party of friends, going from there to visit different points of interest in the east. Alaska is included in their itinerary and the vacation trip will cover an interval of five or six weeks.

E. M. Forbes, 825 North Flower street, was a Union Pacific passenger yesterday for Sioux City, Iowa.

Mrs. E. H. Lamb and Mary Lamb, 620 West Sixth street, left yesterday, via Union Pacific for Great Falls, Montana.

Leaving yesterday for Omaha, Neb., were Mrs. A. S. Clary and daughter Elizabeth, 217 Orange avenue. The Clarys are traveling over the Union Pacific railway.

The Sesqui-Centennial exposition will be visited by Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Stahl, 222 South Birch street who left yesterday via Union Pacific for Philadelphia.

F. J. Johnson, 260 North Glassell street, Orange, left today on the Union Pacific for Sulphur Springs, West Virginia.

M. Deborah Elliott, 2015 North Main street, was also a passenger on the Union Pacific line, yesterday, planning to visit Chicago.

Organization of a Santa Ana chapter, devoted to the protection of animals, is under consideration. It was learned today from persons interested in the recent fight against the proposed city "rabies" ordinance, which, as first proposed, would provide for the compulsory vaccination of all licensed dogs in the city. The existence of such a chapter in Santa Ana not only would enable lovers of animals to keep in touch with current legislation and public measures affecting animals, but also provide an effective instrument for supervision and control of law enforcement in these premises, it was explained.

Patricia, who are spending the summer in Hollywood, will visit with Mr. and Mrs. Clyde H. Ashen, 1516 French street, this weekend. Mr. Murphy and Mr. Ashen will go to Anaheim on Sunday to attend joint initiation ceremonies of the Knights of Columbus. The Murphys were also in Santa Ana Tuesday evening, Mr. Murphy coming down for the E. C.'s regular meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Dawes of Modesto are visiting Mr. Dawes' mother and sister, Mrs. Sarah Dawes and Miss Roselyn Dawes of 821 French street, Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dawes, Miss Dawes and her mother moved to Pasadena and Del Monte returning to Santa Ana Wednesday.

Mrs. Alice Doolittle and Mrs. J. F. Fletcher were guests yesterday of Mrs. Effie Standard of 114 South Broadway.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Ellick of South Broadway spent Sunday in Los Angeles with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. McCrary, of Wichita, Kas., arrived yesterday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Felix Aubuchon, 614 East Third street. Mrs. Cray and Mrs. Aubuchon are sisters.

Santa Ana friends have received cards from Mr. and Mrs. Theo A. Winbiger, from New York City, stating that they were to start Monday, June 19, on their homeward journey.

LOS ANGELES BOOSTERS VISIT S. A. MERCHANTS

Approximately 90 business and professional men of Los Angeles are in Santa Ana today.

Arriving at 10 o'clock this morning on a special train over the Santa Fe, the Los Angeles boosters were met by a delegation of Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce and city officials.

Three Crown stages also were on hand and the visitors were brought to the business section of the city, where they scattered to visit the various merchants. Drygoods men of Los Angeles called on drygoods men of Santa Ana. Hardware men from the metropolis paid visits to the hardware men of this city. Bankers met bankers, grocers met grocers and realty men met realty men.

After two hours of visiting, the Los Angeles boosters assembled at St. Ann's Inn, where they were the guests of the Santa Ana Lions club and the directors of the Greater Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce. The annual election of officers of the Lions' club was rushed through and the meeting turned over to the visitors, who put on their own program.

At 2 o'clock, the Los Angeles men again boarded their train and went to Anaheim, where they expected to spend an hour and then continue to Fullerton, where an hour's hour was to be spent. From Fullerton the visitors returned home.

Paul Diapaltro, R. F. D. No. 1, Huntington Beach, yesterday reported the theft of his machine, in Los Angeles, to Orange county officials.

Edward Wolfe, 18, of 3338 Haynes avenue, Chicago, was lodged in the Orange county jail last night by Santa Ana officers on a charge of vagrancy.

Julla Gould, 45, a housewife, residing at 214 1-2 West Central avenue, Balboa, paid a $35 fine to Judge G. W. Ingles, of Orange, this morning, when she pleaded guilty to a charge of being intoxicated.

PRINCESS SUES TO GET ROYAL JEWELS

LONDON, June 24.—An echo of the famous Fahmi Bey case which three years ago startled Europe, resounded in a London courtroom today when Princess Fahmi Bey instituted suit for the restitution of certain royal jewels taken from her after her trial for the murder of her husband.

On July 10, 1923, Ali Fahmi Bey, young Egyptian prince, who had been a leading figure in London's night life, was shot to death in the Hotel Savoy. His French wife, former Maggie Meiler, actress, was accused of murdering him.

During her trial a sack of the prince's jewels, valued at several million dollars, was produced in court. After she was acquitted it was taken away by members of the dead man's family.

The former actress thinks that she is entitled to them. The relatives announce they are prepared to fight.

POMONA COLLEGE CAMPAIGN PUSHED

CLAREMONT, June 24.—Announcement has been made of the completion of the Pomona college alumni campaign for $250,000 to be used as retirement endowment for Pomona college faculty members.

At the same time it was announced by Kappa Delta fraternity, on its 25th anniversary, that the fraternity had raised $5000 in scholarship endowment which will provide an annual scholarship to be given to the man picked by his classmates as being most representative a Pomona man.

Another recent gift to the college is that of approximately $500 to be used for a new cement tennis court.

CANDIDATES PREPARE TO LINE UP AT BARRIER FOR START OF 1926 POLITICAL SWEEPSTAKES

Candidates who expect to enter the 1926 political sweepstakes today were lining up at the barrier, which will be officially sprung by County Clerk J. M. Backs next Monday. Backs acts as starter in the race by virtue of his duty as distributor of nominating petitions.

Monday marks the official opening of the campaign, being the first day upon which nominating petitions can be circulated, under the law. It is expected that all candidates, who have signified their intention of seeking office, will have their petitions in circulation soon after the opening date, but the entire line-up may not be known until July 22, the last date for filing nominating petitions.

Any candidate who wants his name printed on the official ballot must have the petition filed by that date, the law states. Candidates who decide after July 22 to run for office would be forced to conduct a write-in campaign; that is, their supporters would be required to write their names upon the ballot on election day.

8 Contests in Sight
So far as definite announcements disclose the field, there are, at present, eight spirited contests in sight for the voters of the county to decide. In addition, the electors of Santa Ana township will see a race for the office of justice of the peace. Ten offices to be voted upon by Orange county so far have developed no contests.

County Clerk J. M. Backs, County Auditor W. C. Jerome, County Assessor James Sleeper, Surveyor Warren K. Hillyard, Recorder John C. Lamb, Charles D. Brown, Coroner and public administrator, R. P. Mitchell, county superintendent of schools, Emerson J. Marks, incumbent candidate for "short term" judge of superior court, and Congressman Phil Swing are without opposition to date. Besides these, the two constables of Santa Ana township, Joseph Ryan and Jesse L. Elliott, have encountered no competition.

Contests are assured for the two "long term" judgeships, for assemblyman from Orange county and for the offices of county treasurer, district attorney and sheriff. Contests also are on tap in the three supervisory districts, where elections are scheduled this year.

3 Seek Long Terms
Three candidates are seeking the two long terms on the superior court bench, now occupied by Judges Z. B. West and Homer G. Ames. Judge West will retire this year but Ames, recently appointed to fill an unexpired term, will be a candidate to succeed himself. W. H. Thomas, former superior judge and later associate justice of the court of appeals, and District Attorney A. P. Nelson are the other two candidates.

The office being vacated by District Attorney Nelson will be sought by his chief deputy, C. N. Mozley, and Z. B. West Jr., city attorney of Santa Ana.

J. C. Spill, county treasurer, will be opposed for re-election by Horace Fine, Santa Ana newspaperman, and James Livesey, of Santa Ana.

The election of a sheriff will involve another race, between Sheriff Sam Jernigan and former Sheriff C. E. Jackson, of Santa Ana. The latter is out to regain the office Jernigan took from him four years ago.

Assemblyman S. C. Hartman, of Fullerton, and former Assemblyman C. D. Ball, Santa Ana physician, also will re-enact their contest of two years ago, when Hartman defeated Dr. Ball and W. B. Allen, of Anaheim. This year's campaign will have no third candidate to interfere in the contest, so far as is now known.

District Fights Loom
Supervisory contests are impending in the second, fourth and fifth districts. In the second district, now represented by T. B. Talbert, of Huntington Beach, the candidates, who definitely have announced themselves, are John Mitchell, Sterling Price and L. R. Obarr. In the fourth district, the candidates are Willard Smith, incumbent, Howard A. Wassum, for city clerk, Lester formerly was county clerk and county auditor, later being Santa Ana city clerk. The fifth district has three candidates, including George Jeffrey, incumbent, Howard A. Wassum, former supervisor, and S. W. Stanley. Wassum and Stanley both are residents of Tustin. Stanley is a past president of the Orange County Farm bureau. The contest in this district is another repetition of a former campaign, in which Jeffrey defeated Wassum.

The campaign of interest particularly to Santa Ana township is that for the office of justice of the peace. Justice Kenneth E. Morrison, who was appointed to serve the unexpired term of the late John B. Cox, is seeking election. Other candidates are James C. Metzgar, former secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, Clinton Innes and O. W. Humphrey.

County Clerk Backs today announced the list of minimum and maximum signatures required on nominating petitions for various offices, as follows:

CAMPAIGN FOR SOCIAL CENTER IS ORGANIZED

Perfecting an organization to carry on the Costa Mesa campaign to raise funds for the erection of a modern community church and social center, a number of representative citizens met in Costa Mesa Wednesday night and began actual constructive work.

The meeting was called by the chairman for the purpose of selecting workers, who are to raise money by solicitations, and to give the leaders preliminary instruction as to the manner in which they are to operate during the drive.

Among the captains and workers who already have volunteered for service are Lloyd Braddy, Roy Davis, George Brown, J. B. Cleghorn, Reginald Hartley, F. J. Reynolds, Grow S. Brown, Doland Gibson, George Sherry, Ford Mellett, John Siegel, J. R. Smith, Willard Mellett, F. O. Ross, C. J. Oleson, F. A. Daley, Frank Chapman, E. A. Spaulding, E. L. Bennett, Fred McIntee and E. E. Flynn.

Another meeting of the workers has been called for 7:30 tomorrow night in the campaign headquarters, on Newport boulevard, near Eighteenth street. Each of the captains is to have two additional workers with him at the meeting.

It was announced today that a general meeting will be held in the Costa Mesa church next Monday night, at which time will be given final instruction preparatory to the opening of the campaign. This meeting will be open to the public.

A special program is being arranged for the Monday night meeting, and the women of the church have arranged to serve refreshments.

CLUB BOYS TO HAVE OUTING IN MOUNTAINS

By RAYMOND ELLIS
Assistant Farm Advisor

The boys of Orange county, who are doing Agricultural Club work this year, have a treat in store for them in the very near future. Other counties are taking their boys to the mountains or to the beaches for two or three-day outings. As a result of the publicity given to these camps, many of the local members have been inquiring about a camp for Orange county. This set local leaders and extension service men to thinking, and finally, in co-operation with the Orange County Y. M. C. A., a feasible plan was formulated.

The encampment will be held August 17 to 21, inclusive, at Camp Osceola, which belongs to the Y. M. C. A. and is located on the headwaters of the Santa Ana river in the San Bernardino mountains. This is a beautiful site, and everything is there to make a successful outing. All the equipment including swimming pool, play grounds, sleeping quarters, lodge and kitchen will be available. Meals will be served by the same people who serve the Y. M. C. A. campers. All of this will be furnished the agricultural club boys for a dollar per day or four dollars for the entire camp.

The boys will be under the supervision of seven or eight adult leaders. Every hour of the day will be filled with good healthy diversion, so that time will not drag. There will be swimming, hikes, baseball and horseshoe games, relay races and each day a short talk will be given on some phase of agriculture in which the boys are interested. To climax each day, will be a camp fire with songs, stories and stunts.

In the very near future all boy members will be sent a letter to determine their interest in this camp. It will be impossible to include girls this year, as no arrangements can be made at this time. Next year an attempt will be made to take care of girl members at a special camp.

KANSAS RANCHERS REVIVE OLD DAYS

MATFIELD GREEN, Kas., June 24.—Harking back to former days when fences were unknown in these parts and when cowboys abounded the large ranches, cattlemen of the Flint Hill section of Kansas have found trailing cattle a more economical method of moving them than shipping by rail.

Long trails of dust laden clouds were seen near here this spring when Crocker brothers, extensive cattle raisers of this country, moved a herd of more than 2500 head by trailing from the Osage country in Oklahoma to Chass and Butler counties of Kansas. The cattle had been wintered on pastures in the Osage country.

The greater part of the herd was

HUNGARY LEADS IN NUMBER SUICIDES

BUDAPEST, June 24.—Hungary leads the world in suicides. Although the total population of the country is less than eight million, 2313 persons killed themselves during the last year.

The figure for the next 12 months promises to be even greater. Despite every effort on the part of the "anti-self-murder" societies and even greater preventative work on the part of the police to drag suicide candidates from the Danube the number of self-inflicted deaths is increasing each week.

Among the latest suicides was Eugene Balla, chief of the police statistical bureau, which keeps the record of suicide cases. He used the method most popular with his fellow-suicides. Avoiding the watchful eye of the bridge policeman, whose job is to hinder such acts, Balla jumped into the Danube from the Margaret bridge, one of the principal connecting links between the twin cities of Buda and Pest.

rounded up in the vicinity of Forker, Okla., and driven to the south part of Chass county, Kans. According to the owners, the drive required 10 days.

The Crocker brothers found that the expense of bringing the herd into Kansas for the summer to be between 30 and 40 per cent. less than the cost of transportation by rail would have totaled.

False Standards

Occasionally prospective diamond buyers tell us they can buy larger diamonds than Ewert's offer at a given price.

That is a false basis of comparison. Ewert's never stressed the weight of their diamonds. Quality is paramount—weight, never alone a true basis for comparison, is only considered in conjunction with quality.

As this important point is explained, patrons invariably realize the soundness of Ewert's values.

Betrothals Weddings Receptions By Eleanor Young Elliott Phone Nine-O. Social Items Fashion Hints

Engagement Is Told Group of Friends At Luncheon

THE second in a series of delightful parties in the Floyd B. Smith home on West Chapman avenue, was given Tuesday by Mrs. M. Smith and Miss Hazel Smith, to announce the betrothal of their daughter and sister, Miss Vivian Belle Smith and Gale Warren Harmon.

The first of the social series was an afternoon party about ten days ago, given by Miss Vivian Smith, Tuesday's honoree, and Miss Ethel Coffman, to compliment Miss Nellie Irvine and her approaching marriage to James E. Hughes.

The latest festivity took the form of a luncheon for which the home, in its setting of orange groves, was garlanded with roses, penstemon, sweet peas, gladioli and many other summer blossoms, with white and rose-pink the prevailing colors. These were apparent also in the appointments of luncheon tables and menu. The smart gowns worn by the guests added to the colorful effect. Miss Vivian Belle Smith was charming in shell-pink satin crepe, very becoming to her brunette charm and in harmony with the chosen decorative scheme.

The four-course menu was served by the hostesses assisted by Mrs. George Smith and Mrs. James Smith. Place cards each bore clever verses hinting of the news in the wee envelopes on the corner of each. When opened, they disclosed the names, "Miss Vivian Belle Smith, Gale Warren Harmon" and the word, "October." While interested questions were still flying, a messenger delivered a box of pink rosebuds to the honoree, and with them a jeweler's box containing a beautiful diamond betrothal ring.

The engagement was announced on the twenty-first birthday of Miss Smith since circumstances would not permit the young people to choose that day for their wedding as the bride's mother had done.

A most interesting musical program followed the luncheon. Edward Burns played "cello numbers," "These Antique," Miss Dorothy Hurd was his accompanist. Miss Audria Fey gave several whistling solos, including "Song of the Robin," accompanied by Miss Nellie Irvine. The program ended with betrothal songs sung by Hulda Dietz. These included "Is It You" and "My Gift to You" by Charles Wakefield Cadman, the latter with a cello obbligato played by Mr. Burns. Miss Irvine was at the piano.

Miss Smith is a talented musician of the community and her fiancé is prominent among Orange county dentists. He has been connected with the Orange County Dental laboratory for the past three years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Harmon and has spent his entire life in Santa Ana.

Those asked to enjoy the luncheon and share in the announcement news were Mesdames Edward Harmon, Sherman Galloway, Pearl Linn of Vacaville, Ella Cummings, Jasper E. Green, Roy Long, James Smith, Hulda Dietz, Walter Smith and George Smith of Los Angeles; Cameron Bowles of Santa Monica; Edward Burns, Richard Howland, Misses Hazel Salisbury, Minnie Phillips, Mary Coffman, Ethel Coffman, May Beamer, Audria Fey, Dorothy Hurd, Nellie Irvine, Cleo Bowers, Irene Blower, Gladys Finuf, Berenice Finuf, Ruth Lawrence, Della Franzen, Mabel Franzen, Lydia Fisher, Ramona Smith, Frances Barr, Lella Green and Dr. Peryl Magill of this city; Evelyn Woodruff of Orange, and the Misses Ida Brandon of Texas, and Pearl Linn of Vacaville, houseguests in the E. W. Harmon home.

Y. L. I. Card Party Is Marked Success

Scoring a financial success, the Capistrano chapter, Y. L. I., at the same time offered a highly entertaining evening to their friends last night at a merry card party staged in the K. of C. hall.

The scene was an attractive one, many handsome dahlias adding a brilliant touch of color. The dahlias were grown by Miss Clara Klatt and were much admired throughout the evening. Thirty-five tables were required for cards and three games were offered, bridge, 500 and Dutch whist.

Attractive prizes of pillows, pottery, leather bridge sets, smoking sets, ties and handkerchiefs were bestowed as prizes. Scoring high in bridge were Mrs. Alice Board and Horace Snow; in 500, Mrs. Barnes and U. G. Engelmann; in Dutch whist, Mary Banks and Francis Fisher. Those scoring low in the three games were Mrs. J. W. Markel and John Maag; Beatrice Reilly and Mr. Ireland and Miss Charabel. The men received decks of cards and the women, handkerchiefs.

Refreshments of Holsum bread sandwiches, home-made cake and coffee were served and then to make the evening complete, was the minstrel show presented by the K. C. Blackface Boosters. This was one of the most entertaining and amusing features ever presented before the Institute and was appreciated by members and guests alike. Soloists were Messrs. Barnes, Francis Fisher, E. C. T. Pettitt and Frank Brothers.

Surprise Shower Adds To Festivities for Bride o' June

WHEN Miss Ruth Elliott went to the home of Miss Edith Rinard on Tuesday afternoon to perfect the final details of her approaching marriage to Lauraine Bowe, she discovered that other plans were afoot and that she was the honoree at a delightfully planned party which included shower of gifts for her future kitchen.

Miss Edith Rinard and Miss Mae Swartz were the hostesses planning the happy affair for which the Rinard home on Pasadena avenue, Tustin, was a perfect setting. Clusters of dahlias and amaryllis gathered from the gardens of the home, emphasized the chosen color scheme of pink and white and added to the charm of the airy rooms.

Games and music were enjoyed. Miss Mildred Marchant, to her own piano accompaniment, gave several whistling solos and Miss Marian Smith played two violin solos accompanied by Miss Rinard.

At the close of one guessing game in which Miss Elliott held high score, the hostesses declared the grand prize would be bestowed. Miss Rinard at the piano, played a few measures from Lohengrin and Miss Swartz presented a bride's bouquet to the honored guest. This was composed of chard, onions and other products of the kitchen garden and with carrots tied in checked gingham as the shower. While the girlish little bride-elect was admiring the effect, the two hostesses presented her with a clothes basket filled with a varied array of gifts which would delight any bride.

Refreshments were served on individual trays, whose nut cups each held a shower-defying umbrella. Ices and angelfood cake in rose and white were served. The clever nut-cups as well as rosebud pencils, used for writing bits of advice for the honor guest, were fashioned by Miss Rinard.

Since Miss Elliott is of Tustin, a recent graduate of Tustin high school, it was fitting that she should find many former classmates among the guests who included in addition to her mother, Mrs. Elliott, the Misses Marion Smith, Elizabeth Utt, Margaret Rust, Margaret Cotant, Mildred Marchant, Agnes Cawthon and Louise Lange of Tustin; Mabel Couvier, Ida Bowe, Mildred Bowe, and Ethel Osterman of Santa Ana; Mrs. G. Harris of Tustin, Mrs. P. Clark and Miss Mae Swartz of Irvine, Mrs. S. Harlin of Los Angeles, Mrs. W. H. Cooke of Fullerton and her house guest, Miss Charlotte Pittsforth of Knoxville, Tenn., and Miss Rinard's mother, Mrs. J. D. Rinard.

Miss Elliott and Mr. Bowe have chosen the date of Tuesday, June 29, for their wedding.

Betrothals Revealed By Graduates of Stanford

THE senior girls of Roble hall at Stanford gathered last Sunday for the annual breakfast, many a man were the questions asked as to what the fair graduates planned to do in the future.

After these questions were properly answered, as is usual at the senior breakfast, all girls who had become engaged during the year announced the fact.

Miss Leah Crane of Garden Grove, who makes her home with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Shackengast, announced her engagement to Thomas Ayers of San Diego who also graduated from Stanford last week.

Merrill White of Tustin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace White is also receiving the congratulations of his many friends as his engagement to Miss Muriel McCutchas of Portland, Ore., was announced by Miss McCutchas at the same time Miss Crane's was announced. Miss McCutchas is familiar to many youthful Santa Anans as she has spent two vacations here as a guest of Miss Persana Deimling, Mr. White and Miss McCutchas will finish at Stanford in October.

Ebell Society

Planning to conclude their club year with a program that will epitomize the joys of the year's work, Ebell members will hold a "stunt" program next Monday afternoon at the clubhouse, as the final general meeting until resumption of Ebell activities next September.

Each of the twenty or more sections will add one bit to the entertaining program, general plans of which are in the capable hands of Miss Gallene Finley. While much secrecy is being maintained, yet hints of the entertainment are most intriguing. They include a promise of late popular books whose titles will be pantomimed by the book review members, quaint costumes of foreign lands exemplified by the travel sections, and many other entertaining and unique features.

The program will begin at the usual hour of 2 o'clock. A rehearsal has been called for tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock, and all those taking part are asked to be at the clubhouse for practice.

SANTA ANA TRAVELER VISITS FINEST GALLERIES IN SPAIN

Journeying south from Paris, through France and Spain, Miss Ada May Sharpless, little Orange county art student in Paris, writes to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Sharpless, the various details of her motor tour upon which she is accompanied by three other young women and a courier. The latest letter published in the Register, gave an account of her Barcelona experiences and the trip from there to Alcanaz. Writing later from Madrid she tells the following details of her trip.

"We arrived at noon and had difficulty in finding a decent hotel at a decent price, talking our heads off in Spanish, English and French. We have finally found a wonderful place at the same prices as the others but of much higher quality. We are quite near the Prado which has almost as many art treasures as the Louvre in Paris.

"There are several museums and galleries we want to see so will be pretty busy for several days. I fancy our days will be much more worth while than those spent in Barcelona. This is a very beautiful city. It has all the uniformity of style of Paris with far more elegance of architecture. The buildings are richly expensive and all so clean and bright so the public buildings are very imposing. We are all quite infatuated."

In a succeeding letter, Miss Sharpless writes: "We went down to the king's palace hoping to see a little bit of it as the royal family has been away on vacation. Many others were standing out in front, and presently soldiers and a band came marching slowly towards the palace, and passed inside. Others came from the opposite direction playing louder and faster and as they neared the entrance, King Alfonso arrived in a beautiful big motor car, followed by the Queen in another and then several other motors filled with dignitaries in high hats followed them inside the palace. In about five minutes the queen reappeared and we were able to see her plainly. She was very pretty, and smartly dressed in a green tulle and a close fitting hat of the same material. She is English and very fair.

"Everybody then moved towards the enclosed parade grounds to see the daily change of guards. It was done with much ceremony and playing of bands. The latter were soft modulated, and lacking in blare so it was very agreeable. They gave a concert while two companies of infantry and one of artillery with some cavalry, stood at attention. It was over in about an hour. The soldiers were very elaborate uniforms and fancy hats in red, blue and gold just as in the old days. Soldiers to be seen on the streets at all times, are less elaborate in their uniforms but wear the funniest hat arrangement I ever saw. (We saw these immediately after crossing the border and they caused us much laughter and amusement).

"From the palace, which was quite plain and weather-beaten, we crossed town to the museum of art. There we saw a one-man show and a temporary exhibit of very fine modern paintings, which in some order as at Exhibition Park, Los Angeles, but of a very superior quality. We were delighted with the rich, strong color and the free handling.

"We also saw the permanent exhibit of paintings of the last 50 and 100 years. Many of the canvases would cover an entire wall and were wonderfully painted. Several depicted earth-shaking scenes of historic people. There was one Zuloaga, but despite the fact that he is rated as the greatest living painter, it didn't impress me. We were terribly disappointed at not seeing more of his paintings—of which we

Winter Visitor Plans Smart Function at St. Ann's Inn

EXTENDING a charming hospitality to a group of friends who have aided in making her Santa Ana stay a pleasant one, Mrs. M. D. Borgmeyer, of New York City who has been the guest in the home of her brother, W. D. Haddon on French street, sponsored a bridge dinner last night at St. Ann's Inn.

A lavender and rose color scheme was employed, the table being vivid with sweet peas in variations of the two tones, arranged in a great mass with maidenhair fern. Four tall pink tapers gleamed on the snowy linen while with them were used many smaller lavender candles. Place cards repeated the same color harmony and favors were the nut cups surmounted with dainty sweet pea faces.

Covers were laid for the hostess, Mrs. Borgmeyer, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Haddon, Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Winckler, the Rev. W. L. H. Benton and Mrs. Benton, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Tremaine, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lühr, Dr. and Mrs. George Chapman and Mr. and Mrs. Horace B. Van Dien.

After dinner the hostess led the way to the foyer where card tables were grouped around the big fireplace. Bridge was introduced and at the close of the evening when scores were tallied, Mrs. Winckler and Mr. Skirvin were presented the prizes for high score, Mrs. Winckler's being a pair of rhinestone slipper buckles and Mr. Skirvin's a deck of fine cards in a case with score cards also. Consolation prizes of a vanity case and a keychain, were presented Mrs. Skirvin and Mr. Berry respectively.

Charles V and used by his father, Charles IV for repose. Hallways, stairs, etc., were of beautifully colored marbles, and walls were covered with heavy silks marvelously embroidered. One room had its walls entirely covered with lovely little landscapes, all hand-embroidered. Another room had wedge-wood carvings; another had small ivory carvings. The rooms were extremely small but numerous and contained priceless art treasures."

The next stage of Miss Sharpless' travels will take her to Granada and we will have an account of her trip and stay there, at an early date.

The baking of your BREAD

GRANDMOTHER used to set her bread to rise in a warm spot back of the stove—and, when they seemed high enough, pop the loaves into the oven and bake them.

She would be surprised if she could see how carefully thermometers are used to "take the temperature" of hundreds of loaves of Holsum Bread in the process of rising—how every stage in that process is timed by the clock—and how, in specially built ovens, the temperature is kept so perfectly even that every loaf comes out baked to just the right delicate golden brown.

Fine ingredients—and greater care in baking: these are the reasons why Holsum is served on the best tables today.

TO EXHIBIT NUT STAMPING TOOL AT EXPOSITION

A machine for branding walnuts is to be installed at the Sesqui-Centennial exposition in Philadelphia, by Harry W. Lewis, of Santa Ana, representing the California Walnut Growers' association.

For that reason Philadelphia was the immediate destination of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, 1770 East Fourth street, when they left Santa Ana by automobile this morning. The Santa Anans expect to take two weeks to reach Philadelphia. After the machine for branding walnuts is installed and in operation, with someone to look after it during the exposition, Lewis will be free to proceed with a trip that he and Mrs. Lewis have in mind.

"We don't know how long we will be gone," said Lewis. "We will be away at least two months, possibly six months. Our expectation now is that we will go through the New England states and into Canada."

The machine to be in operation at Philadelphia will be the same type as that used in placing the diamond brand on walnuts shipped by the associations of California. The walnut runs through the machine and the brand is put on with a soft rubber stamp, which fits itself to the irregular surface of the walnut. The association management believes the machine in operation will attract a great deal of attention and will prove a big advertisement for California walnuts.

CAPITALISM GAIN IN RUSSIA NOTED

NEW YORK, June 24.—In an exhaustive report on trade conditions in Russia, James G. McDonald, chairman of the Foreign Policy association, expressed belief that business in that country is tending to swing back to the capitalistic system which existed prior to the revolution of 1917.

American business men have been attempting to benefit from a portion of the Russian foreign trade and it was for this group that the Foreign Policy association gathered statistics for the report.

In a number of instances it has been impossible to ally economic realities and Marxian theories, the report said, adding that, despite attempts of the state to destroy private capitalism in 1925, private enterprise is now flourishing and enjoying practically a free hand. This contention was backed by statistics purporting to show nearly 50 per cent of retail business today in the hands of private dealers.

Regardless of the changes that have come about in internal business, foreign trade still remains an almost complete government monopoly, the report continued. Russia is essentially an agricultural country, hence its prosperity can almost be determined by the size of the agricultural yield, it was pointed out. The main crops still remain about 21 per cent below the 1909-1913 average. Industrial production last November amounted to 71 per cent of the 1913 figure.

COSTA MESA

COSTA MESA, June 24.—The Friday Afternoon club of Costa Mesa closed its meetings last Friday until September with its luncheon at 1 o'clock. During the business session, with Mrs. Huston presiding, it was voted to send one child to the fresh air camp, paying all expenses. The junior auxiliary members are allowed to join the club by payment of dues of $1.

Reports were given by Mrs. Yount, welfare and recreation; D. Dodge, child welfare; Mrs. George Merrick, membership chairmanship the past year, now the new secretary, reported 24 new members, an increase of over 25 per cent; Mrs. J. W. Wherry, reported 50 calls made during the past year; Miss S. Constant, international relationships, told of programs in keeping with her chairmanship and a vision of next year's work.

Total receipts for the year amounted to $3109.48. The total disbursements were $2976.64. A total of $600 was borrowed during the year. This was repaid and $325 paid on the debt of $300. Mrs. R. Vele, press chairman, displayed over 400 inches of newspaper clippings for the Friday Afternoon club. A vote of thanks was ordered sent to the Santa Ana Register and the Costa Mesa Herald.

Mrs. R. G. Roberts, president-elect, was installed by Mrs. Huston. An interesting acceptance talk was given by Mrs. Roberts.

Mrs. E. L. Quinn, in the name of the club members, presented Mrs. Huston with a beautiful shade for a floor lamp, also a motto, which expressed in words the love and appreciation of all to Mrs. Huston for her two years of untiring service.

The Santa Ana section of the San Diego district of Woman's Foreign Missionary societies met at the Costa Mesa Community church Friday. A luncheon was served to about 70 persons. During the afternoon session, Miss Grace Dillingham, of Korea, a missionary, told of the missionary work in the Korean country for the past eight years. Mrs. Grow S. Brown, of Costa Mesa, spoke of many experiences during her missionary work in China. Mrs. C. A. Wright, and Mrs. Brown, accompanied by Mrs. M. Bennett at the piano, favored with a duet. Lois and Winifred Macartney also sang a duet, with Mrs. F. W. Vele at the piano. Ramona Williams favored with two appropriate readings.

Reports were given of the progress during the past year by delegates. Santa Ana had the largest delegation and Fullerton was next.

Mrs. Hartwell, secretary of the district, gave an interesting re-

Mint Growing Is Growing Industry

LONGVIEW, Wn., June 24.—Mint growing, although still in an experimental stage, is rapidly increasing as an industry in the lower Columbia river area. This year mint is being grown on about 800 acres, the largest single tract of which is 90 acres. The leaf first was introduced in this region seven years ago, on Puget island, 30 miles west of Longview, in the Columbia river. Two hundred acres now are under cultivation on the island.

PIONEER RACE OPPONENTS MAY ATTEND PICNIC

Announcement in yesterday's Register that Al (Dol) Faulkner, old-time Santa Ana, would probably come here from Prescott, Ariz., to attend the annual reunion of Orange county pioneers in Orange county park, Sunday, brought to W. Frank Harris memories of 40 years ago, when Faulkner and J. Wiley Harris, Santa Ana realtor and brother of Frank Harris, engaged in competitive foot-racing.

"In those days, Faulkner was considered the best 100-yard man around Santa Ana," Harris said. "My brother was picked from Orange, then a country district, to contest with Faulkner for the championship of the Santa Ana valley."

"I have forgotten the date, but the race was run in front of the Williams ranch, on the old Newport road, in what is now the Greenville district. The dirt road was the track and a fence, on one side of the cornfield, the bleachers. A big crowd gathered to witness the speed contest, the spectators coming for many miles by horseback, in buggies and in lumber wagons."

"I do not recall that bets were made by the principals and, so far as I know, there was no betting on the side."

"A cornfield was the dressing room and the uniform was what was left after shoes and outer garments had been discarded."

"The race was a close contest, but my brother defeated the Santa Ana man and was acclaimed the champion sprinter of the Santa Ana valley."

Both men are 40 years older than they were when the race was run, but officers of the Orange County Pioneer association today were hoping that both men will be present Sunday. If they are, an attempt will be made to have them run a 100-yard race. Assurance is given them no effort will be made to "clock" them.

Court Notes

Would Settle Estate

Grace M. Noe, of Santa Ana, has filed a petition in superior court for letters of administration over the estate of her late husband, C. D. Noe. The estate is valued at $3000. The widow and her two daughters, heirs to the property, reside at 629 North Garnsey street, Santa Ana. Attorneys Head, Rutan and Scovel represent Mrs. Noe.

Husband Inherits Estate

The late Mabel Ward, of Orange, left a $2000 estate consisting of Orange real estate, to her husband, Jesse O. Ward, who has just filed her will for probate in superior court. Attorney F. C. Drumm represents the petitioner.

Mrs. Baird Asks Divorce

Charging non-support and extreme cruelty, Mrs. Ida Baird, of Laguna Beach, today had filed suit in superior court for divorce from William M. Baird.

The Bairds were married at Chickasha, Okla., in 1909, and separated in 1923, at Costa Mesa. They have four daughters, who are residing with the mother at Laguna Beach.

Attorney Morris Cain is counsel for Mrs. Baird in the divorce proceedings.

To Quiet Title

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Carter today had a suit on file in superior court against Mr. and Mrs. James E. DuPlessis, to quiet title to property in Anaheim. Leonard Evans is attorney for the Carters.

Not, and told of the many needs as yet unmet for Mrs. Palmer, of the First M. E. church, Santa Ana, was the presiding officer. Mrs. Fred Long acted as secretary.

Mrs. Daughenbaugh, wife of L. B. Daughenbaugh of the Costa Mesa bank, was injured in an auto accident Monday while in San Diego. Glass from the door of their sedan cut her severely on one leg and foot. The Daughenbaughs were away on their vacation. Mrs. Daughenbaugh is now at her brother's home in Los Angeles.

Miss M. L. Stearns, one of the early settlers in Costa Mesa, was operated upon for cancer Monday. She is in a very critical condition. Her brother from Bakersfield, her mother from Long Beach and W. A. Stearns and wife, of the Mesa, are at her bedside.

Mrs. W. Roundtree, of Victoria street, called Monday to the hospital, where her sister, Mrs. Margaret D. Wells, was operated upon. Mrs. Wells died Tuesday at noon. She had been enjoying excellent health up until early Monday. Funeral services from Winbiger's today.

The quarterly conference was held at the Costa Mesa Community church Tuesday evening. Dr. Crist, district superintendent, was present. Reports were made by all department heads of the church.

For graduates, regular $16 quality photo, 1/2 dozen for $3.50, others $5.00 and $6.00 a dozen, at Gibson's studios all this week.

Smoothy, satiny—men like that lather

"Instant, refreshing lather from this satiny new soap"—say the men

"It's great! So smooth. It lathers instantly, too, even when you strike hard water," says one man. "I'm telling all my friends about Lux Toilet Form. And the fragrance is good—not too strong."

"Never saw such lather," chimes in another. "I like the feel of it—so smooth. Your skin feels good after it."

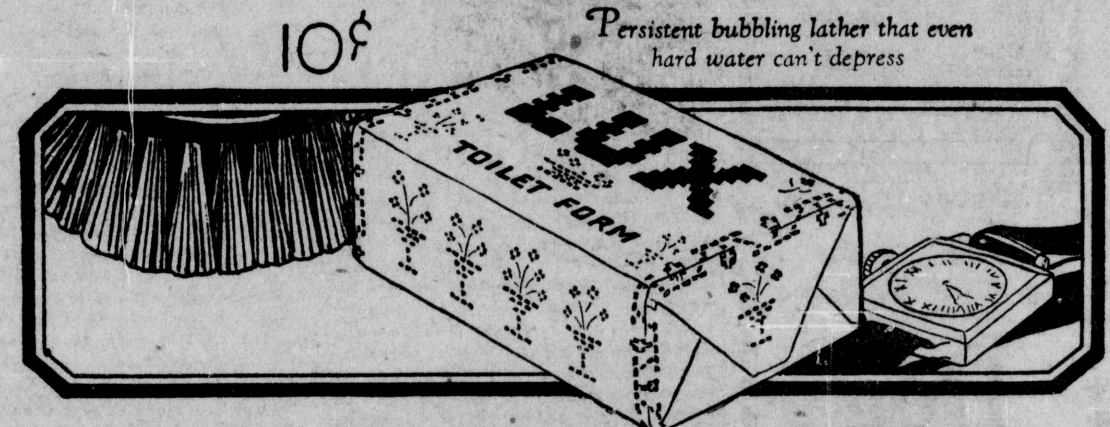

"I use it for everything—even shaved with it the other day. My face felt fine. I didn't need to put anything on it when I finished—my skin was so cool and soft."

Yes—the men like Lux Toilet Form!

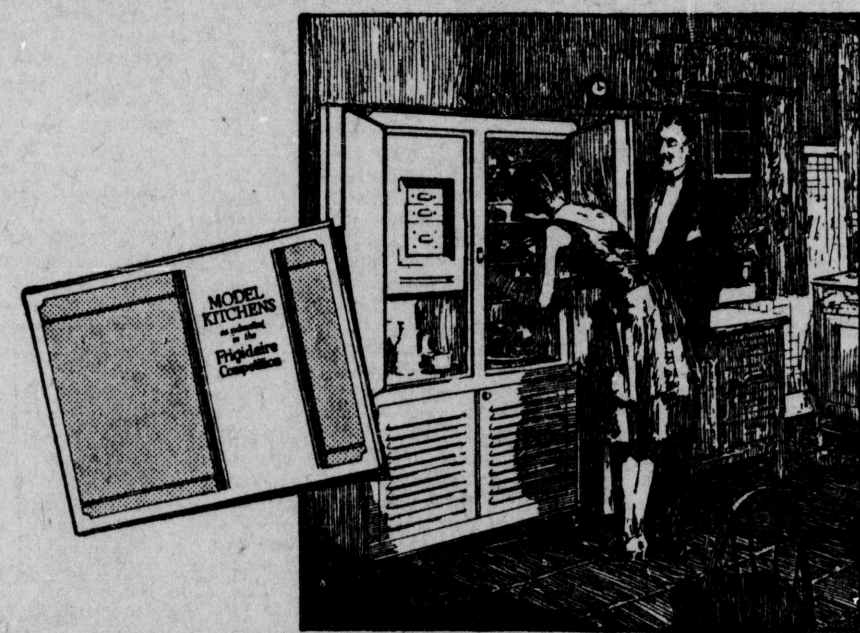

They tell us and their wives tell us. "My husband won't use any other soap now—it makes you feel so well groomed—just like French soap."

We made Lux Toilet Form by the method France uses for her finest toilet soaps. That is why it gives your skin that fresh, soothed feeling costly imported soaps gave it. Lux Toilet Form wears and wears, too. Its delicate fragrance is so delectable!

This new different soap is at your druggist's and department store, and grocer's. Ask for Lux Toilet Form today. 10c. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

BIG FORTUNES ARE MADE IN CHINESE WINE

By C. E. DODDS
Special Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The announcement of the attorney general of the proceedings instituted in San Francisco to forfeit 11,000 cases of Ng Ka Py, Chinese wine, containing 50 per cent alcohol, stored in the customs warehouse at San Francisco, brings to mind the fortunes made in the traffic of this medicinal wine in the early years of prohibition. The wine involved in the forfeiture proceedings is valued by the government at more than a million dollars.

Just prior to the inauguration of the Harding administration, a San Francisco lawyer was engaged by Chinese merchants to bring about the entry of thousands of cases of this wine which were enroute from China, or which had already arrived and were being held by customs authorities because of the prohibition law. He had made a contract with the importers for a fee based on the number of cases admitted as a result of his efforts. Less than a month from the time he signed the contract, former Prohibition Commissioner Kramer, as one of the last acts of his administration, ordered all Ng Ka Py on hand and enroute from China to be admitted on the ground that it was medicine needed by Chinese patients. The fortune made as the result of this transaction not only by the legal counsel who did scarcely nothing to win his fee and by the owners of the wine, is still talked about in Chinatown.

Although the prohibition commissioner announced at that time that no more Ng Ka Py would be admitted, it kept arriving upon each vessel from China. Several thousand cases were admitted later under a ruling by the department that it would be sold if properly medicated so it could not be used as a beverage. But finally this practice was stopped and the remaining 11,000 cases have been on hand for several years while lawyers have been negotiating fruitlessly with the prohibition bureau and the department of justice for its release.

Representative Phil D. Swing made a vigorous and successful fight to prevent the adoption of the committee amendment to the Shortridge bill cutting in half the $10,000 claim for damages made in behalf of Francis Nicholson, of San Francisco.

After 11 years had passed since the time young Nicholson had his head almost blown off by the firing of the morning gun at the Presidio, Representative Underhill, chairman of the house claims committee, moved to cut the amount of relief from $10,000 to $5000. Senator Shortridge, during the five years he has been in Washington, has passed the same bill through the senate three times, each time carrying $10,000 damages, but never before have the members of the delegation in the house been able to bring about any action whatever by the house committee until this session. When the bill came up on the unanimous consent calendar with the committee amendment, Swing made an ardent appeal against it. He introduced a letter from the U. S. employees' compensation commission stating that $10,000, the amount mentioned in the senate bill, was not excessive. He also introduced the recommendation of the secretary of war that damages of $20,000 be given the child's mother. Finally, after a half hour's running debate, (there were only 23 members out of a total of 435 on the floor at the time), the house rejected the committee amendment and the bill was passed with the amount left at $10,000.

Nicholson who is now 24 years old was permanently injured and disfigured when only 13. While playing in the Presidio, he misunderstood the warning of a non-commissioned officer and ran directly in front of the muzzle of the morning gun just as it was fired.

Having succeeded in removing most of the embargo restrictions imposed by the New Zealand government against California exports as a result of the foot and mouth disease, Senator Shortridge has undertaken the task of finishing up the job before he leaves Washington.

He is working through the state department, which, at his request, has been negotiating with the New Zealand authorities for the last six months.

The latest order of the ministry of agriculture of New Zealand specified that seeds of grasses, vegetables, flowers, clover and trees grown in California could be imported into New Zealand if accompanied by a certificate testifying that the seeds had not been harvested prior to April 1, 1926. It is this last restriction which Shortridge hopes to have removed so that the old crops of California forage seeds may be sold in the New Zealand markets. It is his opinion and the opinion of the secretary of state that the New Zealand authorities were not aware that all of the American government quarantine restrictions on account of the foot and mouth disease had been removed from California.

A moving picture and newspaper censorship bill has been introduced in the house by Congressman Miller, of Seattle, which would prohibit the transportation through the mails or by public carriers of films or other pictorial representations of acts of violence, bloodshed and crime. The bill is a result of the recent protest against picturing violent scenes on the films and in newspapers.

Asylum Releases Daugherty's Son

LIMA, O., June 24.—Draper Daugherty, 38, the son of former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, has been released on probation from the state hospital here. Daugherty was committed to the institution several months ago after a sanity commission adjudged him insane. His condition has improved steadily and his release may be made permanent.

FINANCE OFFICER FOR HIGH SCHOOL SUGGESTED

Editor Register.—Although in the school world, this is a time of vacation, there is even now being formulated plans for the next school term, and it seems to the writer to be an ideal time to make a suggestion to the powers who be in the schools of Santa Ana.

Santa Ana has a wonderful school system, and probably the brightest star of the school crown is the high school. We have a high school in which we take pride; a school which we take credit to the community, and which is rated high among the schools of like kind in the state.

The school authorities have provided every necessity to successfully carry on such a school. But it seems to the writer that the board has overlooked one item. And that is the item of a finance officer for the high and affiliated schools.

The writer is informed that something like $50,000 is handled yearly by the high school. This money is obtained by deposits made by the individual students and by money collected by the various organizations in the school. It seems to the writer that where there is an annual sum collected in and later distributed, amounting to approximately $50,000 that it is of sufficient moment and importance to have someone whose business it is to look after the account. In the past we understand that such duties have been added to the shoulders of one of the faculty. A school and junior college—should undoubtedly have a finance officer of some kind, and unless the writer is greatly mistaken, there is probably as much business at the school in this line as one man can handle.

SAYS REPUTED SHORE ACREAGE IS UNDER LAKE

Studying the problem of cultivating an 80-acre ranch, which he had just acquired at Lake Elsinore, Delmer A. Cook, of Santa Ana, discovered that he would need a sea-going tractor. Half of his property, he found, was under the lake.

Cook's tribulations with the Elsinore property were made the basis of a suit he has just filed in superior court against Mark Lightburn and James R. Smith, to recover property in Santa Ana, which he exchanged for a $10,000 trust deed upon the Elsinore land. Cook charges fraud and claims that boundaries of the land were misrepresented.

He thought that he was getting lake shore property. But he didn't expect to find the lake shore in the middle of his property. Despite the fact that he had no worries regarding a water supply, he didn't want the land, as it's condition was finally revealed to him, although only half of it was revealed.

Cook, who is represented in court proceedings by Attorneys L. A. West and B. Z. McKinney of Santa Ana, exchanged Kilson Square property for the trust deed. That was in July, 1925. His trust deed was a second deed and subsequently the first deed upon the property, amounting to $23,000, was in default. Cook sought to raise funds to take up this deed for the protection of his own investment and then discovered, he said, that official maps placed the boundaries of his land some distance out in the lake. Approximately half of his property was submerged, he said.

Recession from the exchange agreement and reconveyance of the Santa Ana property to him is demanded by Cook, who asks judgment for $10,000 in the event reconveyance cannot be made. He also wants $15,000 as exemplary damages.

Brown and Silva To Box Tomorrow

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—Newsboy Brown and Teddy Silva tapered off their training today for what promises to be the equal of any flyweight bout that has been staged in the Southland during the past three months.

The pair will meet in a 10-round bout at the Hollywood American Legion stadium tomorrow night, and from present indications the arena will be packed.

COAST HIGHWAY STRETCH TO BE OPEN JULY 10

In order to give the traveling public the advantage of the new Coast highway between Newport Beach and Laguna Beach as early as possible, the construction work will be planned by the California highway commission and Kavanagh and Twolky, contractors, so as to permit traffic to use the entire road on Saturday afternoons and all day Sunday, beginning Saturday, July 10, it was announced today.

The contractor's forces will be withdrawn from Saturday noon to Sunday night, leaving the roadway unobstructed, except where damage might be done to partially completed work. From Sunday night to Saturday noon, the public will be excluded from that portion of the road between Corona del Mar and Laguna Beach, giving the contractor opportunity to crowd his work.

The concrete pavement between Newport Road and Corona del Mar will be opened to traffic on Saturday, July 10, and will thereafter be kept open except during placing of a few short stretches of macadam. The road from Corona del Mar to Laguna Beach, where bituminous macadam surface is being placed over crushed rock base, will be open to traffic on Saturday afternoons and Sundays beginning June 26.

The highway between Newport road and the bridge across the north arm of Newport bay will not be open for the Fourth of July traffic, but from Newport bay bridge to Laguna Beach the highway will be open from Saturday noon, July 3 to early Tuesday morning, July 6.

BITES OFF FINGER OF CHICAGO THUG

CHICAGO, June 24.—Two "strong-arm" bandits held up John Scharl near his home early in the morning and robbed him of $35, but one of them paid a costly price for his share in the enterprise.

One of the bandits, in endeavoring to poke a finger into Scharl's eyes to quicker subdue him, made the mistake of running the finger into the victim's mouth. Scharl immediately bit it off near the second joint. With a howl of rage and pain the robber released Scharl and fled. Scharl went to the nearest police station and reported the incident, exhibiting the severed finger as proof.

EASTERN TRIP DETAILS TOLD TO KIWANIANS

Recital by D. N. Kelly of incidents of his recent trip to the south and east, and stories by various members, offered a snappy program at the meeting yesterday of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club. With the meeting announced as "Ray Miles Day," R. R. Miles, club song leader, presided over the program.

Shows Interesting Pictures

Kelly left here on April 12, sailing from Los Angeles harbor on the steamer Manchuria. The distance from Los Angeles to Balboa, Panama canal zone, he said was 2623 miles. He gave interesting details of the progress of the ship through the canal, stating that the cost for floating the big vessel through to the Atlantic side was $11,000. The speaker had a number of pictures of scenes on the canal and at points he visited and these were passed for inspection.

Col. M. E. Wellington, who recently was married, was presented, and was the incentive for a brief address of welcome and congratulations offered on behalf of the club by O. H. Barr.

A new Kiwanis song, sung as a duet by Miles and George Turner, the singing by A. H. T. Taylor of a Kiwanis song composed by Taylor, and the leading of the club in a community sing by C. E. Walker were some of the special musical stunts. Stories were told by Barr, O. H. Haley, Turner and others.

Complimented John Estes

John Estes, who is leaving next week for San Francisco, to continue his work with the Aetna Life Insurance company, was presented with a gift as a token of the club's appreciation of his services while associated with the club. The presentation was by W. V. Whitson, president, who expressed the regret of the membership at the loss of Estes, who has been so active and so valuable to the club. Estes was so effected by the unexpected compliment that he could not find his voice to say anything more than to express his thanks. Estes has been identified with the club since its organization, acting as chairman of the educational committee.

City Makes Alum To Purify Water

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 24.—This city is one of a few municipalities to manufacture its own alum for the purification of its water supply.

Under construction now is an alum plant. The alum is to be produced from raw bauxite and sulphuric acid, where eight tons of bauxite will be crushed every hour. Alum and chlorine is to be used almost entirely for purification of the water here, taken from the Missouri river.

Obituary

Mrs. Leah Margaret McElree was born in Marion county, Ohio, March 11, 1841, and died at her home, 317 West Eighth street, Santa Ana, June 20, 1926. Her parents were among the early settlers of western Ohio and she passed through many of the experiences of pioneer life. In 1858, she was united in marriage with Henry Scribner who, a few years later, enlisted at Chickamauga, in September, 1863. Two sons of this marriage, William H. Scribner, of Tullahoma, Calif., and Charles E. Scribner, of Oklahoma, are still living.

In 1868, Mrs. Scribner was married to John McElree, of Hardin county, Ohio. This marriage was followed by a happy and prosperous wedded life of 55 years, which was broken by the death of Mr. McElree at his Santa Ana home in 1923. Five children were born of them, four of whom, F. H. McElree, of Los Angeles; Mrs. M. M. Dietrich, and J. W. McElree, of Hollywood, and J. W. McElree, of Santa Ana, survive. The elder daughter, Mrs. J. M. Roeder, died at Huntington Park, in 1918. She also is survived by 11 grandchildren and several great grandchildren.

Mrs. McElree and her husband lived from the time of their marriage in 1868 until 1924 in Hardin county, Ohio, where Mr. McElree became a well known and highly successful farmer. Mr. and Mrs. McElree maintained a happy and hospitable home and were among the most highly respected and influential citizens of Hardin county. In 1872, they united with the Christian church, and remained consistent members of the same until death called them hence.

In 1904, because of Mr. McElree's failing health, they came to California and resided in Santa Ana. They were greatly pleased with California and both felt that their lives had been prolonged and their joys increased by the change of climate and environment.

"Grandma," as Mrs. McElree was familiarly called by her many friends, was a woman of engaging personality and unusual strength of character. It falls to the lot of very few persons to pass through the varied and trying experiences that filled her long and useful life. Self-sacrificing, devoted to her home and family, steadfast and unselfish as a friend, kind and sympathetic to those in distress, her life has been a benediction to all who came within the range of her influence. She served her day and generation well, and the survivors of her family together with a large circle of relatives and friends sincerely mourn her departure.

Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. F. T. Porter, of Santa Ana Christian church, at the Smith and Tutthill chapel, in Santa Ana, at 10 o'clock Tuesday, June 22. Interment was in Inglewood—J. M. Beeson.

ROTARIANS TO MEET IN PARK WITH EDITORS

Varying from its usual custom of meeting at St. Ann's Inn, the Santa Ana Rotary club will meet next Tuesday in the county park. The meeting is to be held in connection with the barbecue to be given members of the National Editorial association, who, at that time, will be guests of Orange county in the park.

The change in meeting place was made so that Rotarians can join the caravan conducting the editorial visitors on a tour of the county. At Tuesday's Rotary meeting, 15 members volunteered the use of their cars. It later was proposed that more cars could be secured from among Rotarians if the Rotary meeting could be held in the park. The directors of the club then authorized the change.

It is planned to hold a brief Rotary meeting at the park so that visiting Rotarians can check in their attendance and send their cards back to their home clubs. The principal speaker at Tuesday's Rotary meeting was the Rev. Grover Ralson, of Balboa, who was introduced by Guy J. Gilbert, chairman of the day's program. The Rev. Ralson spoke on "Chances to Win." As a young man, just entering his profession, the speaker declared that what young men need most is advice and opportunity. He urged that men who are settled in their businesses make a particular effort to give young men a chance for experience and success.

A brief greeting was brought to the club by a visitor, C. G. Heiser, Jr., of Honolulu, and Attorney C. E. Edwards, of Marshfield, Wis., who is visiting relatives at 802 South Birch street.

Special music was provided by J. Winn Curry, of Lakeport, and George A. Buchanan, of Santa Ana.

ONE WORD HALTS BIG BOND ISSUE

SAN JOSE, June 24.—Preparations for the construction of the new $150,000 Mountain View grammar school were summarily halted when it was learned that the bond issue to finance the new school, authorized at an election March 30, was nullified by an error in the election proceedings.

According to C. C. Coolidge, district attorney of Santa Clara county, the word "property" was incorrectly substituted for the word "lot." "Since the statute defines very strictly the purposes for which a school may be bonded," Coolidge said, "the use of a general term 'property' where the specific term 'lot' should have been employed, renders worthless the bond authorization voted by the people." There is no way of validating the bonds, Coolidge says, except by holding another election.

Krim Adapts Self To New Conditions

FEZ, Morocco, June 24.—Abd-el-Krim is quickly adapting himself to his new status in life. He has decided to check his old burnoose and thoroughly Europeanize his clothes. He has ordered a dozen suits of clothes from the smartest tailors in Paris and among them are two double-breasted flannels of the latest cut. His two sons also will be treated to new outfits representing the last word of the boulevard.

How to End Soft Corns

At last, here is scientific relief for sore, painful soft corns, calluses and blisters; and raw, irritated, itching, burning feet and toes. Pedisan, as this new discovery is called, heals and prevents further trouble and torture because it neutralizes the acid in foot perspiration, which is now known as the real cause of raw, irritated, inflamed skin, cracks between the toes, sore, tender spots, soft corns and blisters. Pedisan is in convenient vanishing cream form, and contains a super-efficient healing agent discovered by one of the world's greatest research laboratories. Applied in a few seconds, it vanishes into the pores and brings relief at once. Banishes offensive foot odors and leaves feet smooth, dry and comfortable. Satisfying relief guaranteed or money back. IDEAS and Ideals

A. V. NAPIER

Pictures displayed in the windows at the First National bank this week present a fairly clear reflection of business life in Santa Ana 40 years ago. The changes that have taken place in the development of the town since those photographs were made have left little trace of the Santa Ana the pioneers knew so well. There are many towns in the United States that are almost exactly as they were 40 years ago, but there were special reasons why Santa Ana should develop into something better.

The same natural conditions that caused men to cast their lots with Santa Ana and build it from a crossroads village into a modern city still exist. The same vision of greater possibilities that stimulated pioneer Santa Ana is today before the mind's eye of the new generation. But the pioneers had vision of Santa Ana from one direction only—toward the future. The new generation has a mark of accomplishment set before it—an example of what may be built from the ground up. The new generation, with the example of the past 40 years' achievement to make notes from, has far less cause for discouragement than the pioneers who have carried on before.

It is reasonable to expect, is it not, that the accomplishment of the next 40 years in Santa Ana will far exceed the developments that have been worked out in the past?

The type of buildings shown in the ancient pictures which are having the public attention this week, are in keeping with whisksers and the high hats worn by the citizens of that day. The long skirts, the puffed hair and the balloon sleeves of the late 80's seem to fit perfectly into the pictures of the tin awnings and board sidewalks, if any. But has it not occurred to you that the whisksers and the voluminous costumes have far outdone the architectural styles, in point of evolution? Whisksers and ancient dress have almost entirely disappeared, but there are still a few business buildings in Santa Ana that would entirely fit in the historical pictures under discussion.

Santa Ana as a whole has taken on a decidedly metropolitan appearance in the past few years, but it will never entirely shake off the country town buildings and the country town store fronts as remodeled along the lines of approved modern architecture.

OBSERVE 40TH ANNIVERSARY OF SANTA ANA INSTITUTION

First National Bank Is Celebrating Founding; Old Photos Are Exhibited

BOOKLET SHOWS GROWTH OF CITY

Slides Showing Old-Time Scenes Here to Be Shown At Yost's Theater

Forty years ago today there was opened on West Fourth street, a new bank. Today that bank, the First National of Santa Ana, is celebrating the 40th anniversary of its founding.

Naturally, the day has been replete with reminiscences. The bank, the growth of the institution from a small beginning to the present proportions, has been reviewed.

As a feature of the occasion, a score or more old photographs have been placed in the windows of the First National. There are pictures of old-time Santa Ana streets, remarkably free from traffic and congestion on the sidewalks. Two or half dozen men, leaning comfortably against awning posts—that made up all of the activity in more than one of the old pictures shown today, 20, 30, 40 or more years after they were taken.

Father, Son Entire Force.

The central figure in the reminiscences of long ago is A. J. Crookshank, for 10 years president of the bank. Forty years ago he and his father, M. M. Crookshank, opened the First National, the father as cashier and the son as assistant cashier. They comprised the entire banking force.

W. H. Spurgeon, founder of Santa Ana, was the bank's first president. Other members of the board of directors were S. W. Preble, of Tustin; M. A. Forster, of San Juan Capistrano; F. C. Howes, D. R. Sterling, C. L. Foster, G. H. Bonebrake and M. M. Crookshank.

At that time, Santa Ana's population was 3000; its voting strength about 670; its assessed valuation, $347,241.

These and many other interesting facts are given in a booklet, entitled, "Forty Years, 1886-1926," issued by the bank and being distributed at the bank today.

To Hold Barbecue.

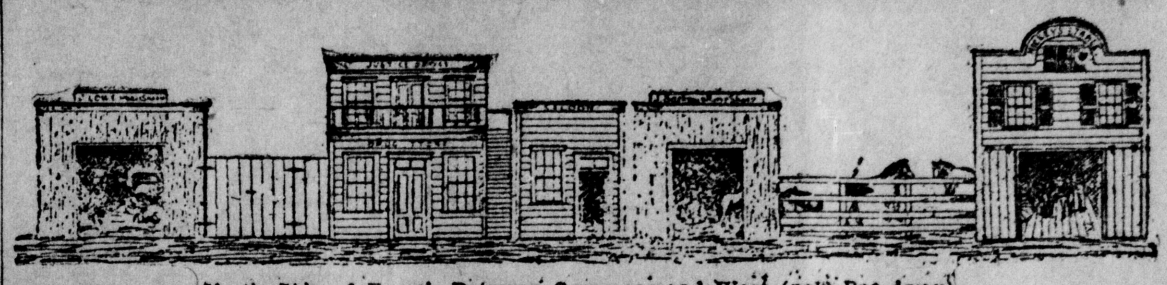

The anniversary is to be further awakened quite a bit of local interest by the bank and its more than 80 employees and their families at a barbecue, to be given this evening in the county park.

The anniversary seems to have interest in pioneer doings. Some 15 or 20 slides have been made, showing old-time scenes in Santa Ana. These are to be shown for two or three evenings at Yost's theater. The First National of today, with its six-story building, its fine banking rooms, its thoroughly equipped safety deposit vaults, its complete service departments, its deposits of more than $3,300,000 and its resources of more than $10,640,000, is one of the outstanding financial institutions of Southern California.

The new building, at Fourth and Main streets, was occupied in September, 1924. The First National's York for the best 200-word essays on the 12 heroes chosen.

FIRM TO BUILD 45 HOMES IN YEAR

The Santa Ana Improvement company expects to construct 45 houses and an equal number of garages in this city within the next 12 months, it was declared today by W. Floyd Cuddy, president.

The homes will be situated on the company's 12-acre tract, Washington park, situated at Washington and Bristol streets.

Since January 1, the company has built 12 dwellings on its property. The buildings ranging in price from $4250 to $5000. The houses are all of stucco construction, of modified Spanish and English design.

Cuddy attributes the ready sale of the homes to the fact that they are built in the midst of a walnut orchard and that the soil is particularly adapted to the growing of flowers.

BUILDERS' QUERIES ANSWERED

By Southern California Chapter, Associated General Contractors of America

Q. Completed a duplex about one year ago which is finished with plain Colonial stucco. The stucco is chipping off badly and during the last rain, I counted 41 leaks, which in most of the cases are around the window and door frames. Will you please advise me the cause and a possible remedy?

A. More than 75 questions similar to the above have been received within the past few weeks, therefore we feel a general answer by an authority on the subject is most opportune. We are quoting excerpt of a letter from an engineer who has spent many years investigating cement products: "As a member of several technical societies, I have for over 15 years been investigating this subject (cracks and disintegrating of stucco and concrete) and have been on committees charged with these investigations, which are still going on. We hope to learn more, but have gone far enough to know that cement is a reversible colloid and will expand and contract in the presence of moisture or temperature stresses, even though 20 years old. The great trouble comes in that, during a rain it expands, after which, when the sun shines extensively on it, it contracts twice as much as it expanded. No concrete or stucco ever successfully is handed to a new coat of stucco, as the second addition is never the same as the first and will not expand or contract with the same ratio.

"I would never advise a second coat of stucco as it will eventually crack and peel off.

"We have gone far enough, with the help of the research chemist, to believe the remedy is to either water-proof the stucco, (I know of no successful water-proof stucco or cement, although considerable is sold as such) or to give it a coat of specially prepared paint, which will keep out the moisture; the latter seems to be the most successful."

Q. Will you please tell me how to determine the length of a rafter for a roof with a five-eighths pitch?

A. A very simple rule to find the length of a rafter for a five-eighths pitch is to multiply the span (distance between bearing walls) by 0.80. To the length thus obtained, add the amount of projection desired at the eaves.

Q. What is a trust deed?

A. A trust deed is similar to a mortgage. It is used to convey property to the third person for the purpose of securing a debt or obligation with power of sale upon failure to meet the payment or obligation at the specified time. With a trust deed, there is no period of redemption allowed.

THREE DEALS CONSUMMATED BY S. A. BROKER

Citrus Properties Worth $51,500 Change Hands; Grove Land in Demand

Inquiries for good ranch properties are increasing, according to H. G. Wendell, local realtor. In the opinion of Wendell, Orange county ranch property is the safest possible investment, and he is anticipating greater activity here the coming winter than has been in evidence since the days when realtors were kept on the jump to meet the demands of easterners seeking investment in Orange county orange groves.

Wendell was the agent in a transaction by which Harold Yost, of Yost's theater, sold his 10-acre orange grove on the south end of the Hewes ranch to E. L. Whitaker, 318 Orange avenue, for $26,000. Yost accepted as part of the consideration, residence property at 1225 South Broadway valued at $7500.

The dealer also reports the sale six acres of valencias north of six acres of valencias north of Orange at a consideration of $18,000. Underwood resides at 823 Oak street, this city, and it is understood he will at once erect a residence on the ranch for occupancy by his son, Raymond, who will manage the grove.

O. K. Watson has sold five acres of oranges on Tustin avenue, north of Chapman street, Orange, to W. B. Ferguson, a farmer residing at the end of West Fifth street, this city. The reported consideration was $3500 an acre, or $17,500 for the piece. Wendell was the agent in the transaction.

Van Dien Buys Broadway Site

H. B. Van Dien purchased the large lot at the southwest corner of Bonnie Brae Ave. and Benton Way in North Broadway Park for a residence. The price was $3500. The sale was made by Freeman H. Bloodgood and John A. Newcomer.

GEORGE TO BUILD $12,000 DWELLING

J. A. George, vice president and manager of the Federal Finance company, has been issued a building permit for the construction of a $12,000 residence and a garage at 2433 North Park boulevard. The house will have five rooms and will be of stucco material. The contract is held by Sam D. Harkart.

Five thousand dollars will be spent by A. W. Albrecht, of 433 South Broadway, in the erection of a residence and a garage at 806 South Ross street. The buildings will be of stucco. The contractor is E. C. Rogers.

E. C. Ramsey, of 1710 West Eighth street, will erect a home at 1702 West Eighth street at an expenditure of $4000. The dwelling will have six rooms. The owner will supervise the work.

Lizzie and Walter Nesbitt, of 3840 South Hope street, Los Angeles, have started work on a five-room house and a garage at 212 Wright street. The cost will total $3500.

Sixty-five hundred dollars will be expended by Dr. H. G. Huffman, of the Meyer hotel, in the erection of a seven-room dwelling at 2430 Riverside drive. The contract has been awarded to Klidder and Shipp, who plan to start building operations at once.

POLISH UNREST HITS BUSINESS OF DANZIGERS

DANZIG, June 24.—During late months it has been brought home to the people of Danzig that the prosperity of the city is dependent upon the capacity of Poland to absorb imports through the Free State.

There has been a failure to realize truth and a tendency in Danzig to view the troubles inland with complacency, seeing in them the distant hope of a return of Danzig to Germany.

The Danzigers have received a painful lesson. The fall of the dollar, in which currency sales to Poland have been made, and the failure of several Polish banks caused heavy losses to the Danzig trading community.

Many business houses went into liquidation and even the strongest firms were compelled to limit their engagements. Transactions with Poland are now mainly effected on a cash basis and are consequently of small extent. The factories are working on short time and there is widespread unemployment.

All classes are therefore looking forward, though not too hopefully, to a return to more settled conditions and to an improvement in the trade of Poland. They recognize that such an improvement could only benefit Danzig.

The German inhabitants of the Free State believe that Marshal Pilsudski is well disposed toward them and would welcome a policy of Danzig and Poland would be allied. Danzig has nursed a grievance against the Poles on account of their action in erecting Polish postal boxes in the town, and the league's decision which upheld the rights of the Poles in this matter within the limits of the port, has been very unpopular.

Pastors Protest Use of Stamp In Camp Campaign

GREENSBORO, N. C., June 24.—President Coolidge's influence has been solicited by the Greensboro stop to "militarization" of the mails.

The association doesn't like the way Uncle Sam cancels his stamps. A resolution was adopted by the ministerial body condemning the use of the slogan, "Let's go—Citizens' Military Training Camp."

The association wrote the president, in part: "We believe this use of the mails creates the impression abroad that we are a militaristic nation, and that it suggests to the youth of our land that international differences are to be settled by war rather than by justice and reason."

"Furthermore, the use of this cancellation stamp on the mail of those who do not believe in the training camps makes them the unwilling promoter of a system of which they do not approve."

'Ghosts' Laid to Underground Cave

PARIS, June 24.—The haunted village of Saucourt, in the Haute-Saone department of France, which for several years has been annoyed by mysterious rumblings and spirit rappings, has led to the discovery of a great subterranean cave. Scientists' examinations revealed a cave believed 600 feet high, through which roars an underground river. These internal sounds caused the strange noises.

Published each week in the interests of the people of Santa Ana and vicinity by the Barr Lumber Company.

For about a year we have been telling our readers to "Phone Barr's for building information" and to call Barr's when they needed a good carpenter, plasterer, mason or any building mechanic. During this time we have had calls from 77 people who had jobs to be done and to each of them we sent a skilled workman. Four of the 77 asked us to recommend contractors who built four brand new homes for them. We are naturally pleased with these expressions of confidence from these folks and they are pleased with the work done by the workmen who were pleased to have the work to do.

CROWDS!

Repairing and Retreading. Increase their volume daily. Why?

[We have a lot of friends. They are our friends. We hope to be their friends. Each person has an individuality we enjoy. They're all different. That's why they are so interesting. The religion of each of them; the politics; the hobbies they ride; the hopes; (did we say the fears of them?) make each an entity, a study, a problem.

[But when they merge (and surge) in the crowd the whole group of them takes on the elements of the swarm of bees. It's an able man, a strong issue, a noble purpose that can swing them into action.

VICAR IS NAMED TASTER OF ALE

LONDON, June 24.—The Rev. Canon Ackerley, vicar of Mitton, Clitheroe and Lancashire, has just taken on a job which comes as something of a shock to precise churchmen. He has been appointed the official "ale taster" of the Manor of Mitton and Carke.

The canon, however, will not be required to do much beer drinking, for the job is largely nominal and is a relic of centuries-old feudalism. The appointment was made at the annual meeting of the "Court Leet" of the Manor of Mitton and Carke, a body of which has only nominal powers now-days, but which is retained to insure the recognition of ancient manorial and public rights. Three hundred years ago the court was the administrator of local government and had very wide powers with its own jurisdiction.

Canon Ackerley readily accepted the post. Having performed its important duty, the "Court Leet" adjourned; some members of it, it is to be feared, to the beer bar at the local inn.

BUILDERS TO SEEK DELAY IN GRANTING OF PERMITS

Three-Day Interval Aim Of Exchange to Allow Dealers' Investigation

MEMBERS WILL CONSIDER CODE

Schedule Barbecue, Dance At County Park Friday; Officials to Meet Here

An ordinance specifying a delay of three days after an application for a building permit is made before the permit is granted will be requested of the Santa Ana trustees by the Orange County Builders' exchange, it was learned today.

The three-day delay is desired in order that the material dealers and others may investigate to determine the encumbrances if any on the property. This plan is in force in a number of Southern California cities, it is understood. Material men do not care to supply materials for a building where the property is too heavily encumbered, it is declared.

The matter will be discussed at length at the meeting of the exchange members at Orange County park tomorrow evening.

The building code written by Mark Cohn, Pacific coast authority, will be presented at the park session and probably passed upon favorably. It is planned to submit the code to the various municipalities of Orange county for adoption by the trustees in order that there may be a uniform ordinance governing building in Orange county.

The delegates to the conference of presidents and secretaries of Southland exchanges and the ladies of exchange members will be the guests of the Orange county members at the park. The meeting will be preceded by a barbecue and will be followed by a dance in the park pavilion.

The regular meeting of the county exchange is usually held the first Tuesday in July but owing to the conference in the Chamber of Commerce building here, the meeting has been advanced.

Various matters concerning Southland exchanges will be taken up at the conference, according to Elmer Schaniel, manager of the county body. Paul Langworthy, manager of the Los Angeles exchange, probably will preside. The meeting in the chamber rooms will start at 2 o'clock. The barbecue at the park will be served at 6 o'clock.

Son of Premier Is Spiritualist

LONDON, June 24.—The prime minister's socialist son, Oliver Baldwin, speaking at a brotherhood meeting at Birmingham today, pronounced himself a spiritualist, according to a Birmingham dispatch to the Westminster Gazette. He asserted he had talked with dead relatives and had heard spirit voices in five languages from all parts of the room. It was not until he was convinced of spiritualism, he declared, that he found life was worth living.

PLACE WHERE BARD IMBIBED IS NOW CLOSED

LONDON, June 24.—Did Shakespeare get lit up? He did. And because that is well known, certain thirsty Americans coming over here this summer have expressed themselves as gravely disappointed because the "Wynne Cellar" and "Dryknynge House," next door to it below ground, at Hampton Court palace is not to be opened to visitors after all. They had hoped to see the actual scene of his illuminations.

Naturally the historic apartment in the old royal palace never would have been fitted as a place in which any man or woman again could quench that thirst which in these days is so much less respectable than the thirst was then, but there would be comfort in mere sight of the place where Shakespeare and his players, together with full many another semi-favorite of royalty just above the servant class, as all players were considered then, together with such vagabonds as authors and such paupers as painters of portraits and other pictures.

Days of Henry VIII
These tolerated vassals who could not "souse with the gentry," were permitted to go and there receive largesse in the way of what ever drink they needed and what ever food they could hold in the days of Henry VIII.

The historic Dryknynge House, vaulted and picturesque beyond almost any place in England full of the most precious literary associations (besides its alcoholic interest to Americans and others) remains or at least at present is exactly as it was when that brilliant young actor, William Shakespeare, used to repair to it with his company of players for the purpose of reading to them under stimulative influences his next play—for instance that effort which was condemned as too fantastic when it first was heard and which he therefore dubbed "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Entitled to Gallon
The cellar is not to be opened this year because the few pounds necessary for its upkeep as a show place and for payments to the attendants are among the things which have been lopped from the money to be spent upon the palace owing to a general decrease of appropriations. In turn owing to hard times, in turn owing to the war and what came afterward, in turn owing to the Kaiser Wilhelm and all the rest of it.

As servants of the royal household, which Shakespeare and the members of his company all were, he was entitled to his gallon of good ale each day and the traditions of the place are that he never missed his rights.

Escaping Worms Worries Farmer Who Breeds Them

SACRAMENTO, June 24.—Angle worms that escape in the night are causing anxiety to George H. Forbes, San Jose. In a letter to Director of Agriculture G. H. Hoeksema today Forbes relates he has been trying to breed angleworms in his back yard with a view to supplying the demand among fish for bait from contented worms. His worms refuse to be contented, however, and regularly "escape during the night." He ventures to hope the department of agriculture will tell him why the worms leave home and what he must do to keep them well nourished and happy.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

There are few old time music lovers who will not recognize the name of Franz Meisel, the "wizard of the violin," who opens at the Yost Broadway theater tonight with the vaudeville program. Meisel is a violin virtuoso from Vienna where he was royal violinist to the late Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria. He was at one time favorite violinist at the English court and former concert-master with the London Symphony orchestra. His world fame, however, was firmly established when he accompanied Mme. Emma Calve on a tour around the globe. He will be heard in a repertoire of his most famous selections during his vaudeville engagement.

Carmen and Rose are two very talented girls, whose entertaining abilities are well known in vaudeville. Carmen is not just plump—she is downright fat, weighing 263 pounds, and she gets many laughs through this asset. Joy and happiness will be auctioned by Williams and Young, two talented young men, who have a knowledge of entertaining an audience.

Broadway Bits with Hazel Moor and Jane Decker will bring the outstanding hits from the best musical comedies of this and last season. "Stolen Bits from Musical Hits" tells more in five words than a paragraph could tell. "Broken Toys" is an odd comedy novelty presented by Harry King and George Brown. The scene is laid in a toy shop and the two men represent two toy clowns that have been sent to the shop to be mended, with the plot so arranged that the toys come to life and go through a series of acrobatic stunts that are difficult of accomplishment.

Divorces Sailor Who Didn't Earn $2000 Per Month

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—These sailor boys—
"He told me he made $2000 a month and that he was a big business man," said pretty Mrs. Lois May Quest, actress, to Judge John J. Van Nostrand.
"He only made $30 a month and he was only a sailor. But that wasn't the worst of it."
The worst part, Mrs. Quest declared, was that one fine morning he "ups and leaves her."
Judge Van Nostrand granted her annulment from the sailor husband, Clyde M. Quest, whose little red book from now on contains one less name.

WEST COAST-WALKER

The West Coast-Walker theater sizzled with excitement yesterday as the story of "The Pleasure Buyers" was unfolded on the screen. For here was a mystery story that got you in its grip from the first few minutes to the sudden, unexpected conclusion.

Our guess is that you will guess wrong as to who killed Gene Casenas. But you will have a whirlwind of thrills as you sit seeking to unravel the baffling plot.

The story is an adaptation of the novel by Arthur Somers Roche, which ran as a serial in the Cosmopolitan. The ending has been changed, so that even the readers of the story are in for a surprise when the climax comes. But, for the rest, it is the same gripping tale that made the serial readers exclaim, "Here is a story made for the screen."

The making was excellently done for Warner Bros., the producers, by Hope Loring and Louis D. Lighton, the scenarists, and by Chet Withey, the director.
Irene Rich, the star, is at her charming best, and an excellent cast also includes Clive Brook, Gayne Whitman, June Marlowe, Charles Conklin and Don Alvarado.

YOST THEATER

One of the greatest casts of actors ever assembled appears in "Fine Clothes," to be shown at the Yost theater for the next three days. There are only four male roles in the picture, and each is portrayed by a veteran of the stage and screen, the quartette including Lewis S. Stone, Percy Marmont, Raymond Griffith and William V. Mong.

The story is built around a London shopkeeper whose life ambition is to get out of debt suddenly collapses on the eve of its achievement when his wife elopes with an absconding clerk, his best friend deserts him and a member of the English nobility seeks to complete his ruin by blighting a new love which dawns in his heart.
Alma Rubens and Eileen Percy head the feminine portion of the cast.

MISSING LINK TRIBE IS FOUND

LONDON, June 24.—A dispatch to the Daily Express from Johannesburg, South Africa, tells of an unnamed traveler who reports having encountered in the Northern Katanga district of the Belgian Congo a curious tribe of natives, whose physical characteristics suggest "the missing link." The traveler described one individual as half man and half ape. He was six feet tall and had an exceptionally long arm, a projecting jaw and a receding forehead. He had the normal negrooid nose, woolly hair, startling black eyes, a straggly beard and was of exceptionally powerful physique.

UNKNOWN MOUNTAIN WILDERNESS IN SOUTH MAY BE DESIGNATED AS NEW NATIONAL PARK

Upper—A general view of the Great Smoky mountains, wrapped in the clouds that give them their name. Lower—There are scores of hidden waterfalls like this in the Great Smoky mountains. These are the Rainbow falls, on the Mill creek trail to Mount Leconte.

Great Smokey Region Lies On Tennessee, North Carolina Border

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 24.—A great range of mist-veiled mountains and tall, uncut timber, as wild and solitary as it was before Columbus discovered America, lies hidden a scant 40 miles from Knoxville and less than a day's ride from the thickly populated centers of the east.

In it are towering mountain crags that never have been scaled by white men, deep whispering forests that have no trails save the traditional paths made by the feet of the black bear and the red fox. There are wild mountain streams teeming with trout, that have never been whiped by a fisherman's line. There are tall, rocky pinnacles there, higher than any other peaks east of the Rockies, but so little known that many of them have not been named.

It is a land of unspoiled beauty; a paradise for the sportsman and camper.

Nation Must Buy It This wilderness is the Great Smoky Mountain region, lying on the borderland between Tennessee and North Carolina. It will be preserved forever in its primeval state for the people of the United States—if the people will donate the money to buy it.

Congress has passed a bill to make a national park out of the Great Smoky mountains. But national park territories are never bought by the government. The land must belong to the government originally or it must be donated. Hence the appeal for funds.

The people of Virginia, Tennessee and North Carolina already have given $2,400,000, but many millions more must be donated if the project is to be successful.

The very existence of this tract of virgin wilderness is unknown to most persons. Seventy miles long by a dozen or more wide, it is, much of it, totally unknown territory. Even the Tennessee and North Carolina people know little about its interior. It is as fresh and unspoiled as it was when Daniel Boone led his pioneers westward along the old trail a few score miles to the northward.

Veils of Mist Its name connotes its beauty. "Great Smoky" mountains they truly are; majestic peaks veiled in clouds hidden in drifting vapor, rising above the storms of the wooded valleys, serene and peaceful.

Aside from the Great Smoky region, there is only one peak in eastern North America more than 6000 feet high—Mount Washington. In the Great Smoky district, there are a dozen, and seven of them tower even above Mount Washington. Clingman's Dome, tallest peak east of the Rockies, is 6680 feet above sea level. And the district is so little known that seven peaks more than 6000 feet high have never been named.

The woodsman's ax has never rung out in this territory. There are towering trees that were standing when the continent had never seen a white man. In their shade there are small shrubs and leafy plants that can exist only where the upper growth has not been cut away.

Plenty of Wild Life There is an abundance of wild life here. Black bears, amiable and inquisitive, prowl about the mountain slopes. The covers team with grouse, wild turkey and other birds. An angler who cast a fly in the mountain streams would think he was in Isaac Walton's paradise. If the land becomes a national park, government officials have promised to stock the ranges with elk and deer.

There is room for a whole army of vacationists to camp and tramp and fish, secure in the knowledge that no man has been there ahead of them.

This is the unknown wilderness that will perish if left to itself, but that will be preserved forever if the people of America will furnish the money.

SWEDISH WAITERS ASK STEADY WAGES

STOCKHOLM, June 24.—The Swedish Waiters' union has declared war on the tipping system and in its agitation for fixed wages instead of tips, it has discovered an ally in the country's liquor law, which declares that the compensation of those serving liquor should under no circumstances be dependent on the amount of alcohol sold.

That being the case, the union has petitioned the government minister of finance to explain how the waiters in the restaurants and hotels with the right to serve liquors with meals can be paid their wages independently of how many drinks they serve, on how the tipping system can be reconciled with the public ordinances.

The question has been referred to a committee of experts for solution.

2 Big Sea Walls Are Constructed

SANTA BARBARA, June 24.—Two gigantic sea walls, said to be the largest in the United States, have been constructed under direction of the state highway commission between Ventura and Santa Barbara.

The walls replace wooden causeways, and were completed after 15 months of work.

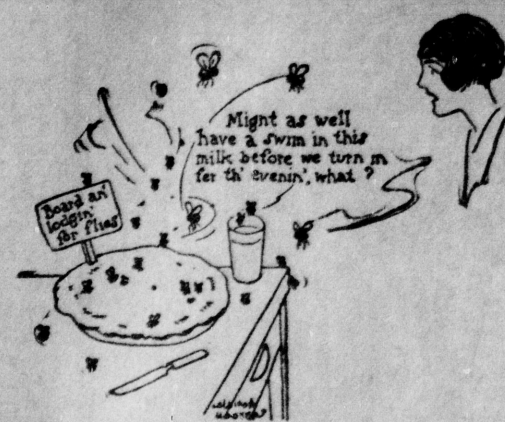

The Ventura-Santa Barbara Coast highway will be closed to traffic in the fall, while it is resurfaced. Traffic during the period of reconstruction will be diverted over Casitas pass.

The sea walls are 4527 and 1894 feet in length.

FORTY YEARS!

The First National Bank Celebrates Its Fortieth Birthday Today, June 24

THE FIRST NATIONAL officially opened its doors on June 24th, 1886, forty years ago, when Santa Ana was young. Santa Ana had just begun to find itself. The developments of these Forty Years are crowded strife and peace, romance and prosaic work, good times and bad, the invariable accompaniment to pioneer days. The First National Bank's history is rich by its interweaving with the development of Santa Ana and Southern California.

Eighty-odd employees are today required to handle the business of the Bank, the growth of which spans the years from the beginning when the two Crookshanks, father and son, were personally able to serve the banking needs of business and commerce of Santa Ana.

Since its inception its policy has been to serve agriculture, to be a commercial bank, to render the greatest amount of service to the greatest number consistent with good banking. Underlying all activities has been a dominant conservatism, and the Bank's successful growth and wide influence attest the prudence of its course.

The Bank has seen the barometer of good times and bad go up and down and has not been deprived of any of its growing powers in the meantime. It has seen Santa Ana grow from 3000 to 30,000 population and has successfully met the growth of financial complexities in a natural way, and today, one sees the effect, the net accumulation derived from a normal existence and it speaks for itself.

Our friends and associates are reminded of these Forty Years today with a mutual gratification existing, and an unbounded faith in the greater accomplishments of the future.

Interesting Notes of 1886 Facts, at the Time of the Bank's opening

Santa Ana's population was about 3000.

California's population was about 1,000,000.

Gross production of oranges for that season, 2250 cars, estimated at 133,000 oranges.

200,000 boxes of raisins shipped.

15,000 acres in Santa Ana Valley devoted to nuts, fruits and vines.

Spurgeon's new store and postoffice erected.

Building permits for the year, $166,000.

Gas mains laid through Santa Ana.

Total school enrollment, 385.

The week the Bank opened the Santa Ana Herald announced that "it was only a question of about three years' time when Orange, Tustin and Santa Ana would all compose one municipality."

Taxable wealth of Santa Ana, $947,241.

Bank's deposits in August, 1886, were $20,844.02, growing to $89,019.58 in December. (Compare with nearly $8,500,000.00 today).

PRESIDENT OF CHILD RELIEF BODY REPLIES TO STATEMENT BY COUNTY AID COMMISSIONER

Designed to acquaint the people of Orange county with the various activities of the Crippled Children's Relief Association of Orange County, as well as to furnish a reply to a recent statement of W. S. Gregg, county aid commissioner, reflecting unfavorably upon the work of the association, is a statement prepared by Harry D. Riley, president of the organization.

Facing a deficit, which would compel the association to suspend its activities among crippled children in poor homes and unable to secure any aid from the county, the association, a few weeks ago appealed to the Community Chest of Santa Ana and Tustin for financial aid on a pro-rata basis, being a county organization. As a result of this appeal, the association has been invited to file a formal application for participation in the chest.

Riley's Statement

"I read with a great deal of interest and concern an article appearing in the Santa Ana Register, June 12, quoting expressions of County Aid Commissioner Walter S. Gregg, regarding a request submitted by the Crippled Children's Relief Association of Orange County for financial aid. My privilege and pleasure is to serve this association as its president, and I, personally, made the request for assistance, at the instance of our board of directors.

"I am sure that Mr. Gregg is not fully informed, or does not understand the request that was made. He was not present at the meetings when the matter was taken up, making it necessary that he receive his information second-hand, which circumstance may account for the position he takes in these premises.

"The supervisors referred the request of the association to a committee, composed of County Aid Commissioner Gregg, Dr. Harry D. Zaiser, superintendent of the county hospital, and Dr. V. G. Presson, county health officer. On a certain Saturday, Commissioner Gregg, acting as chairman of the committee, decided to call a meeting for the following Monday, at 3 p. m., to discuss the matter. He mailed me an invitation to attend, which reached my office at 5 p. m.—exactly two hours after the time set for the meeting, thus preventing me from being on hand to explain the necessity for the request.

In Wrong Position
"In the ordinary course of events I would not enter a newspaper controversy, but the position taken by Mr. Gregg, as a county official, has been given such publicity that I am prompted to make this explanatory statement. And it might be added that the observations of Commissioner Gregg place our association and its request for county aid in a wrong position with the people of the county.

The sincere interest of men and women identified with the association is in those not so fortunate in life as ourselves, and in the welfare of the little children, whom the association is assisting back on the road to health and happiness.

"To restore crippled children to a healthy, active life, so that they may be in position to earn a livelihood and lessen the chance of their becoming a burden upon society for the remainder of their days, is the ever present and sole purpose of the association. With this objective in view, the directors maintain that charity should not be taken advantage of, nor abused. We further contend that the world owes no man a living. We subscribe to the principle that all any person is entitled to is that for which he works and saves, through practicing self-denial, thrift and proper management.

Cases Are Investigated

"Every case is thoroughly investigated before treatment is given, so that we may know the financial condition of the family. If the patient is indigent, the association pays all expenses. If the parents or guardian are in position to pay for the treatment needed, we encourage them to have the service rendered and to make their own arrangements. In so-called 'borderland' cases, and there are many of them, where the family is not classified as 'indigent' within the meaning of the law, the association pays either all expenses or the greater portion, as circumstances may warrant.

"Our association was formed in May, 1921. Since its organization, it has been financed by voluntary contributions. Thousands of dollars have been spent on actual relief work. No previous request has been made for county aid.

"The reasons for the request submitted several months ago are as follows:

"During the last year, all county cases, where physiotherapy treatments were needed, regardless of the age of the patient, were turned over to our association because of the fact that we have the only specialist in the county available to public patients. Hence, Commissioner Gregg's observation that there are not enough indigent cases in this county to warrant the establishment of a full-fledged orthopedic institution supports the position we take in asking for co-operation and financial assistance from the county.

Burden Too Heavy

"We are glad that we are in position to render this service to deserving people, who are entitled to treatment, but who, on account of their age, do not come within the province of our objective. The number of extra cases, however, constitutes a heavier burden than our budget will carry.

"The directors of the Crippled Children's Relief Association of Orange County are well aware that the taxpayers' money cannot and should not be spent except upon deserving cases, and we asked assistance only for this type of cases. As there was no physiotherapist in the county hospital and the need of one was made manifest on different occasions, we thought it well that our specialist be transferred to the county hospital staff, thus placing her services at the disposal of the physicians in charge, an arrangement, we understand, which had the approval of Drs. Zaiser and Presson.

"Commissioner Gregg's intimation that there are 'hordes of persons of other states looking our way for treatment' may be questioned. I know that there are about as many persons leaving here as arriving.

Association Too Active

"Commissioner Gregg feels our association is too active in getting cases to work on and that we really go out of our way to get in touch with them. The aid commissioner's quite right—we do try to find every case we can, and always will, for the sooner we find them, the quicker the relief. Our association approaches every case from the standpoint of a friend.

"As I said before, our association has been functioning for more than five years, in the course of which period it has assisted more than 100 children on the road to health and happiness, a record that speaks for itself.

"Commissioner Gregg asks, 'what would be left for the association to do if we granted their request?' Proceeding from this point of view, there should not be anything for any social welfare or relief association to do in caring for the sick, deformed and unfortunate in our midst. While ideal conditions are desirable in human affairs, practical experience in everyday affairs forces us to arrive at different conclusions than those reached by Mr. Gregg.

Has Difficult Job

"We understand that Commissioner Gregg's office is a difficult one to fill; that many people take undue advantage of public aid. We are more than willing to concede that he is exercising proper vigilance to eliminate abuse and on the whole is discharging his duties in a creditable manner. We further realize that many disappointments come to him in the course of his official duties. We maintain, however, that each and every case must be considered on its own merits, irrespective of past practices in former cases. But even with the undeserving and unappreciative, there are the right kind of people, those who deserve and value assistance, and we feel our association should be numbered among this latter group.

SOUTH AFRICA PUTS CHECK ON COLORED RACE

LONDON, June 24.—More trouble impends between South Africa and the Home Government here in England. Undoubtedly the general feeling on both sides is becoming very strained.

The latest disagreement centers around South Africa's "Color Bar Bill."

This is the most drastic legislation ever passed in restraint of people other than members of the white race. After a long fight it has been approved by the South African Parliament, sitting for the purpose in joint session, under a curious provision of the constitution, although previously rejected. It amounts to far more than the disfranchisement of a large portion of the population of the Union of South Africa. It is not aimed at negroes especially, as its title, "The Color Bar Bill," would be likely to indicate to Americans, although, of course it fits them particularly.

Originated Among Money Lenders

It originated years ago among Jewish money-lenders, who had become politically powerful. They suffered from the competition of men from India, of the same trade and as shrewd as they—mostly Parsees. So they drafted a bill against them which they later dropped with haste when they found in it a hot potato sure to burn their own fingers.

The present bill, which has the country in a ferment and serious-brothers English politicians, is an endeavor by white South African labor to protect itself against not only negro but Asiatic competition, the term "Asiatic" in this instance meaning rather of Indian than of Chinese or Japanese origin, although including men of both these races. This bill is not aimed at either Jewish or Indian money-lenders, but will hit them both. The Jews, therefore, were against it. In South Africa they are numerically insignificant but politically powerful.

White Greatly Outnumbered

The situation is delicate. In South Africa the white workingman finds himself confronted and tremendously outnumbered by two definite competitors who can beat him in almost any field owing to their low living standards.

The peril which he suffers from the negro is comparably slight, because the negro in South Africa is incomparably inferior to the negro in the United States, being of a lower race and slighter development, not materially affected by admixture of association with the whites.

The bill is not an exclusion act as far as immigration goes. That detail of regulation has been very well covered by the various laws already on the statute books.

It goes far, however, in what the opponents of the legislation here in England, where the protest against it is far louder than it is in South Africa, call its assault on human liberty.

Bars All Of Colored Blood

It design to bar all those of colored blood, including Asiatics, from becoming artisans, that is, skilled laborers. They may remain servants, hewers of wood and drawers of water, doers of any crude tasks which they can find to do, but if this bill becomes an operative law they cannot engage in any labor of the upper grades. Automatically it is felt that this eventually would exclude them from the professions and important commerce; for it would exclude them from prosperity.

The ban amounts to a prohibition of a tremendous population, including negroes, Chinese, Japanese, Indians and (as has unexpectedly developed) Jews, from any effort to better its condition.

South African workers are closely organized on a trade union basis, but, beyond that, they also are organized, as they are in the mother country, on a political basis. The world "labor" there suggests first to the mind familiar with conditions a certain political partisanship and as a secondary matter trade unionism.

Emancipation of Women Is Myth

ANGORA, June 24.—Mustapha Kemal's "emancipation" for Turkish women is little more than a myth.

On a tour of Anatolia it was found that, except in large cities, 90 per cent of the Turkish women still wear the veil and lead the same miserable existence their sisters did for 400 years before them. It is true polygamy has been suppressed and that the Moslem woman is now permitted to appear in public, but her social and political position is still very obscure. There is no direct universal suffrage.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA—

—BY REDNER

There was no one to carry on with the cannon Hays had been firing, and it was ordered taken off the field. Molly heard of this, and insisted that she be allowed to take her husband's place. On through the battle she fought, using the rammer and firing the cannon. She was called Major Molly by the soldiers, and later made a sergeant by General Washington.

Molly's husband lived but a short time after his wartime injury. Some years after his death she married George McCauley, another soldier.

For several years they lived in an old stone guard house near Carlisle, where Molly cooked and washed for the soldiers.

For a time, following that, she ran a store in Carlisle, and then spent the last few years of her life in a small stone house, where she died, Jan. 22, 1832. She was buried in the English graveyard in Carlisle, and 44 years later, on the Fourth of July, 1876, a stone marking her grave was unveiled. This stone called Molly Pitcher "The Heroine of Monmouth." (NEXT: THOMAS JEFFERSON.)

Making Antiques
The very best way of making wormholes in manufactured antique furniture perplexes that noble profession. One faction insists that a good firing squad with buckshot makes wormholes that defy the worms themselves. Another faction argues for a block of wood with heads of small nails imbedded therein which is whanged against "prehistoric" chairs and "sofas." A nice heavy chain beaten again and again about the sacred manufactured "antiques" is supposed to give a realistic scarred-by-time effect.

The Wedding Table
Only the bridal party, according to strictest etiquette, sits at the bride's table. The parents and families of the bride and groom sit together at another. The bride's cake is placed before the bride at the table and a silver knife is handed her. She cuts the first piece, and the bridesmaids and ushers cut their own. The actual wedding cake, a rich fruit cake, is generally cut into small pieces and packed in small white boxes monogrammed in gold with the initials of the bride and groom, and given to the guests as they depart.

Your Home
New India prints for wall hangings completely change the tone of an entire room. Hung behind a sofa, over a fireplace, or on an awkward stairway, the loveliest ones are of tan background with rust and dull green pattern.

Two Styles
Two styles of dinner service are used in the best homes. One is the Russian, the other, the English. In the former way, all dishes are served by waitresses from the side. When the English service is used, serving is done from the table. Russian service is used for all formal meals, and English is favored by simpler homes for informal entertaining. A larger dinner plate is used for Russian service. The waitress begins serving at the right or left of the host.

IT WAS AN ALL-DAY JOB TO COMB ONE'S HAIR

BY TOM SIMS
Once upon a time, a man would say to his wife, "Let's see a show. Uncle Tom's Cabin is in town." The wife would say, "Splendid! I'll start combing my hair." Barely three hours later, he would say, "Better hurry." She would have too many hairpins in her mouth to answer him. Then, just before show time, or possibly a few minutes later, she would say, "Hair's combed. How do you like it?" He would say, "Took you almost four hours." He would be right. And the result of the woman's struggles would resemble the "jug handle" coiffure in the above photograph. She would be too worn out to enjoy the show. Couldn't even get up enough energy to hate Simon Legree. But it's changed now, all is changed. A man says to his wife, "Let's see a show. Naughty Nellie's good." And his wife says to him, "All right. Here's my hat. Where's yours?"

BREAKFAST—Stewed prunes, cereal, thin cream, bread crumbs, pancakes, syrup, crisp bread toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Rice and nut loaf, creamed carrots, brown bread, strawberries, vanilla cakes, milk, tea.

DINNER—Roast beef, potatoes cooked with meat, creamed string beans, new cabbage salad, rhubarb gelatin with whipped cream, coconut macaroons, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

Since we do have cold rainy summer mornings when we need a comforting breakfast the pancakes are suggested. This particular variety of "flap-jack" uses stale bread to advantage which is quite a consideration during the season in which bread spoils so quickly.

Rice and Nut Loaf
One cup boiled rice, 1 cup broken nut meats, 1 cup cracker crumbs, 1 cup milk, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, few drops onion juice.

English walnuts, pecans or hickory nuts make the best loaf.

Combine rice, nuts and cracker crumbs. Add one or two drops onion juice, parsley, salt and pepper with milk and eggs slightly beaten. Mix well and turn into a well buttered brick-shaped pan. Spread evenly and smooth over the top. Pour over the melted butter and bake one hour in a moderate oven. Turn out on a hot platter and pour around creamed carrots to serve.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

By ARTHUR N. PACK
President, The American Nature Association

Aphids or plant lice are among the most common and by no means the least injurious of our insect pests.

To understand why they so suddenly appear by myriads it is necessary to learn something of their life history.

Scientists who have studied the group tell us that many of them hatch in spring from eggs that have lain over the winter in some protected place. The individuals hatching from these winter eggs are all females and possess the power to bring forth living young without fecundation, and these can continue the process.

So naturally, with new generations coming into being every few days, the tribe soon overruns the nearby plants. So far the insects have been wingless but soon winged females are produced, and these are able to travel to other food plants.

After a time both males and females are found among the broods, and these produce eggs which are deposited in crevices in bark and other situations, there to winter and provide for the continuation of the process. With such methods of reproduction, one would think that the aphids would soon possess the earth, and so they would if it were not for their natural enemies.

Of special interest are the relations between ants and aphids. The latter secrete a sweet liquid called honey-dew, of which the ants are very fond. Certain ants, in order to insure a supply of this substance, maintain herds of aphids, just as we keep cows.

THE NEW FACE

It seems we are developing a new face, longer, thinner, hence more spiritual, than we used to have. An English student of science, chief assistant to a famous English anthropologist, made this observation through her study of the shape of skulls, and some of our newspapers followed this by interviewing various American artists.

One artist attempted a scientific explanation. In ancient times, people chewed hard foods, hence certain muscles of the lower face were abnormally developed, and the lower half became rounded. Now that we are used to more elaborate cooking and softer foods the jaws are not overworked and the face takes a softer and more graceful outline.

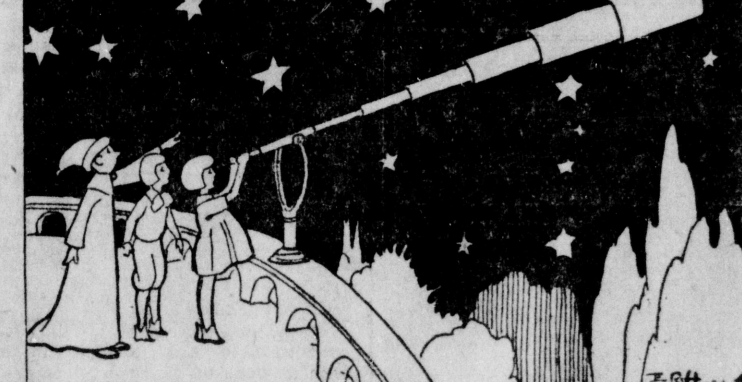

Another artist said that a comparison of ancient and modern portraits showed that the upper lip was shortening. Character experts say that a short upper lip shows a short temper and an aggressive disposition. Let us hope that they are not right.

It seems to me that the best explanation of the thinner face is that women are much thinner now than at any other period of history. For one thing, it is fashionable to be thin and we know how to diet, besides, women are taking more exercise than they ever have and this helps to keep them thin. We eat less meat than ever before. In the old days a dinner included two or three kinds of meat in any well-to-do household. Nowadays most people have meat only once a day and are healthier for it and slimmer, too.

Jane B.—I am sorry but I cannot supply you with the names of people in the business you suggest. A hair tonic in which there is some sulphur will help your scalp trouble. The pilocarpine hair tonic often mentioned in the "Chats" has sulphur in it, and also other things that should help you overcome the conditions. You can have the formula for it if you request it.

X. Y. Z.—There is nothing that you can do but to brush back the extra hair that has come in below the natural hair line. This is likely a weak growth and will drop off after a time, and you can always cover it through some arrangement of the hair.

M. L. E.—A cream formula cannot be printed at this time, but you may have them by sending in a request with an addressed, stamped envelope for mailing.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

NO. 22—INCO AND FLOPS ARE FOUND

"Yes, siree!" shouted Nancy. "It's Inco and Flops."

"Won't you come into my house?" said the Man-in-the-Moon.

Nick thought for a minute, and then said, "I wish we could find Inco and Flops first."

"That's so," said the Man-in-the-Moon kindly. "You are right. We must find your top elephant and clown as soon as possible. Just wait here and I'll go and get my big telescope. It can see things a million miles away."

Away went the Man-in-the-Moon and in about two minutes he came back with a hundred little moon fairies carrying the big telescope.

"Now then," said he, "this is not only a telescope, but it is a telephone, and a telegraph as well. Indeed, it is a tele-everything! We should certainly be able to locate your lost friends now."

So he fixed the telescope exactly in the right position, then he clapped his hands and the moon fairies disappeared.

"I can see all over the moon with this," he went on to say, "and I can see through the moon too. First, I shall look in Shut-Eye Town."

"Oh, are they there?" cried Nancy as the Man-in-the-Moon peeped through the hole.

"No," said the Moon Man. "I don't see them. I can see the Forty Winks, and I can see the Sandman's house, but I—Why, I do believe—yes, sir! I do believe I see the very people you are looking for, my dear! Come and look for yourselves and see if it isn't Inco and Flops."

Nancy and Nick almost fell over each other trying to get to the telescope. Nick stepped back, though, and allowed Nancy to peep through first.

"Yes, siree!" shouted Nancy. "It's Inco and Flops! Looksee, Nick. So Nick looked and there they were, the two of them at the Sandman's house. Inco was standing at the Sandman's front door and Flops was sitting on the Sandman's front steps."

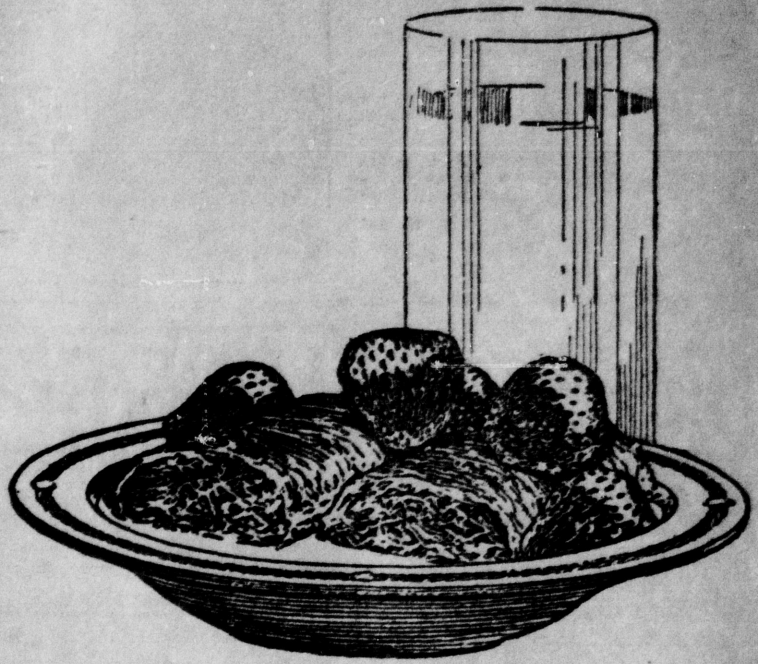

"Hello, Flops! Hello, Inco!" called Nick. "Here we are. We came to get you."

But Flops and Inco never moved.

"They can't hear you," explained the Man-in-the-Moon. "They look near, but they are really very far away—about as far away on the moon as New York and Chicago down on the earth."

"But just wait, this telescope can be turned into a telephone by pressing this button. There

Just the body-building breakfast to start a business-busy day

Another day—another opportunity! Have strength to meet it without fear or favor.

Let Nature keep you fit with her balanced food for man—whole wheat. Shredded Wheat is whole wheat—every food element of the whole golden grain: vitamins, proteins and other needed food elements, along with the bran in Nature's wise proportion, to tone the body and keep it working right.

Besides, Shredded Wheat is good to eat. Topped with red-ripe strawberries it's a tempting breakfast treat. Any time, anywhere—in home, hotel or dining-car, start the day with this health-full, body-building dish. All the food you need to keep your body fit.

JONES, MEHLHORN LEAD IN BRITISH GOLF

BILLY
EVANS
Says

For freak ball games I recommend the one staged at Cleveland June 5 between the Indians and the New York Yankees.

Here are some of the unusual things that happened:
To open, Cleveland won from New York, 15-3, the worst defeat the league-leading Yankees have suffered all season.
Buckeye, Cleveland's heavyweight southpaw, aside from holding the Yankees safe, was the fielding and batting hero of the afternoon.
In four trips to the plate he made as many hits, including a home run, double and two singles.
In the field, with the bases filled and no one out, he caught a line drive and started a triple play that got him out of a deep hole.
Incidentally, Babe Ruth made his 19th home run of the season.

Tris Speaker, Cleveland manager, also figured in the day's events in a decidedly unusual manner.
The event was designated as "Speaker Day," to honor the famous manager of the Indians, a rather belated testimonial to the fact that he was the most valuable player in the American league in 1912.
When the most valuable player scheme was inaugurated by the American league, club managers were made ineligible. This prevented some of the greatest stars of the game, like Cobb, Speaker, Collins and others from being so honored.
Years ago, a similar plan known as the Chalmers trophy, was the vogue and in 1912 Speaker received that award. The honor was simply brought up to date in the recent "Speaker Day" game.
Eddie Collins, best of second sackers and Tyrus Cobb, rated the greatest ball player of all time are to be honored ala Speaker later in the season.
Certainly an American league roll of honor would be incomplete without the names of Cobb, Speaker and Collins.

To round out an afternoon of freak happenings, Ruben Lutzke completed an unassisted double play, the like of which I have never seen during my 21 years' connection with the American league.

With one out, Bob Meusel on

LEE'S FOUNTAIN 6-2 WINNER OVER TIERNAN KIDS; THREE CLUBS NOW TIED FOR FIRST

Three clubs—Lee's Fountain, the Tiernan Typewriter company and the F. C. Blauer grocery—were tied for first place in the Santa Ana Indoor Baseball league today as a result of the 6 to 2 victory of Lee's Fountain over the Tiernan Kids at Lincoln park last night. A large crowd, representing one of the biggest turnouts of the season, witnessed the crucial tussle.

Deprived of the services of Tom Hitt and Randolph Bell, two of their aces, the erstwhile league-leading Tiernans lacked their usual dash and fire and this seemed to react to their fielding, nine errors being chalked up against them. Despite their big handicap, the Kids battled all the way and bowed only after nine frames of hard-fought ball.

Hitt Wild But Effective.

Gene Hitt went to the turret for the Tiernans in the absence of his brother, Tommy, and although it was his first game in almost a year he turned in a creditable performance, holding the hard-hitting Fountainers to five singles. It was Hitt's wildness, the result of pitching inactivity, that hurt him most.

The City League's unbeaten moundman, Jimmy Mansfield, won his sixth straight victory for the Fountainmen. He allowed only three safeties and whiffed 10, which was one less than Hitt's record. Mansfield walked but one, however, while his rival passed five.

The Fountainers broke the tie in the third, scoring twice. Norton and Mansfield both drew walks and L. Daley singled infield. Walbridge forced Norton at the plate, but Yonel's error on Ed Daley's grounder allowed Mansfield to score and Jones' infield out sent L.
Daley across. Hitt then showed his nerve by fanning Merrill and Winder with second and third bases occupied.

Kids Tie Score.

Two Tiernan runs in the first of the fourth tied the score. Hitt tripled to left center after two were down and scored on a wild pitch.
Preble was safe on L. Daley's error and went around the paths on wild pitches before Mansfield finally struck out Smith.

A pass to Benedict, a wild pitch, an infield out and another wild pitch gave the Lee's the lead again.
In the last half of the same stanza,
The Soda-Jerkers cinched their win in the sixth, tallying twice on Jones' single, Hitt's error on Mer-rill's sacrifice bunt, Winder's infield out, two wild pitches and a passed ball.

Merrill brought in the final Fou-ntainer count in the eighth. He was safe on Holmes' boot, went to second on a wild pitch, to third on Hitt's error on Benedict's roller and scored when Romo kicked Angell's drive.

One of those three clubs now tied for the lead may be bumped off tonight when the F. C. Blauer Grocers go against the Excelsior Creamery company at Lincoln park tonight. The Excelsiors boast the hardest hitting outfit in the circuit and are expected to press the Grocers to the limit.

SORTS

Increasing prevalence of intentional passes has aroused fandom to screaming squawks and the cry of "What can be done about it?"
is abroad in the land.

Just what pitcher it was who first found that he could solve the problem of baffling a dangerous hitter by tossing four straight balls in the direction of the clubhouse has been lost in the maze of ancient history. But he established a tradition that has become increasingly popular with the hurlers and unpopular with the fans.

Intentional passes are not always a perfect defense, of course. Many are the times that the supposedly weak batter has socked out a rousing basehit after a slugger has been given free transportation.
But the calculated pass apparently has worked well enough for the managers to counsel it at least once in every game.

Babe Ruth, of course, is the recipient of more mound charity than any other player in the big leagues. He recently was walked 10 times in four games and at least six of these strolling tickets came with malice aforethought.

The stands boo loudly at each pass, but the pitchers persist. For some incalculable reason the managers seem to have forgotten that after all it is the fans who pay the freight and should be satisfied.

Several suggestions to legislate away the intentional pass have been brought forward.

Obviously a simple rule against it would not work, because there is no way to determine whether a pitcher is tossing wildly on purpose.

The best solution of the problem in the opinion of this writer, came from a Baltimore fan. He suggested that a batter get two bases whenever a pitcher hurled four consecutive balls.

Thus if there were men on second and third an intentional pass would bring in a run, and managers would think twice before self-assessing this penalty. If a pitcher hurled three had ones he would have to shoot the next one in, and give the batter a chance or suffer heavy consequences.

It would be an interesting experiment and one which no doubt would please fandom a great deal more than the present method of passing a player whenever danger is in the offing.

Piping 'Em Off

Yesterday's hero—Tolson, Cub pinch hitter, who hit a home run with a mate on base in the tenth inning, giving Chicago a 5 to 3 victory over Cincinnati.

Rogers Hornsby hit a home run with the bases filled in the seventh inning and the Cardinals downed Pittsburgh, 5 to 2.

WALTER HAGEN TAKES 77 AND FALLS BEHIND

Three Americans Show Way To Big Field; Bill and Bobby Tied in 36 Holes

ST. ANNE'S ON THE SEA,
England, June 24.—Bobby Jones
and "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, amateur and professional, respectively, today wrestled the lead from their fellow American, Walter Hagen, in the second round of the British Open Golf tournament.

Mehlhorn's 74, coupled with yesterday's 70, put him ahead with an aggregate of 144 and Jones, with two rounds of 72, had the same total. Hagen was a stroke behind, having slumped today with a 77 as compared with yesterday's startling 68.

Hagen, premier American professional golfer, was unable to keep up the terrific pace today which marked his play in yesterday's open championship round.

With a final 36 holes to be played tomorrow, Hagen's aggregate was 145 and several of yesterday's leaders had an excellent chance to pass him.

It was another field day for the Americans. Three others, in addition to Jones, Mehlhorn and Hagen, broke 150. They were Al Watrous
and Freddy McLeod with 148 each,
and George Von Elm, California,
with 147.

Behind this sextette came two other Americans, tied with two British golfers for seventh place with 150. They were Archie Compton and Thomas Barber, (British) and Cyril Walker and Tommy Armour, (American).

The final 36 holes will be played tomorrow, with only those finishing within 45 strokes of Jones and Mehlhorn remaining in the tournament. Two young American amateurs, Watts Gunn and Roland
MacKenzie, thus are eliminated because their scores for the first 36
were respectively 162 and 163.

Cyril Tolley, British amateur,
was another well known golfer
forced out.

Jim Barnes, the defending champion and Joe Kirkwood barely kept in the competition with aggregates
of 157.

SWEETSER'S SHORT SWING AMAZES BRITONS

JESSE SWEETSER LOVER

Overseas accounts of Jess Sweetser's victory in the British amateur championship make particular note of the uncommon success the rangy American achieved using a three-quarter golf swing.

For the British and the Scots it was not precisely a novelty, since the stroke is now pretty generally used, but until Sweetser had come they had seen no one get better or more uniform results from the shot.

Critics Convinced

Sweetser probably was the first American ever to win a national championship using the shorter, more compact swing. This was at Brookline in 1922 when he galloped rough-shod over a remarkable field.

Sweetser's opponent in the finals in that tournament was Chick Evans, Chicago veteran. Evans was also using a modified swing, having discarded the sweeping, rhythmic full shot two years before.

Up to that time there had been some reluctance on the part of golfing masters to accept the three-quarter stroke as a superior driving weapon but the spectacle of two stars fighting it out in the national finals settled the controversy beyond further debate.

It was not observable at Brookline—nor later at Muirfield—that the shorter swing reduced the yardage of tee shots. (The theory had been that the longer back-swing the greater the force at the moment of hitting.)

Get Good Distance

As a matter of fact, Sweetser and the other three-quarter swingers seemed to be getting even greater yardage than the full swing men. Certainly they were hitting 'em just as far.

The reduced back swing is a development of the lively golf ball.
Back in the days when the gutta percha was in play the old-timers probably had to employ a long sweeping swipe to get any distance. In those days 200 yards was a record drive.

A salubrious feature about the three-quarter swing is that it is a quicker road to low scoring (for the duffer as well as the star) than the full swing, for the very practical and logical reason that it is easier to control and less likely to generate tee wildness.

The Los Angeles team, which has been leading the Pacific Coast league, won 14 out of the 19 games played on its last road trip.

The Greenville Spinners have been rattling along with a comfortable lead in the South Atlantic league race.

BROWNE, RYAN
BEAT LENGLEN
AT WIMBLEDON

WIMBLEDON, England, June 24.
—Mary K. Browne and Elizabeth Ryan today defeated Suzanne Lenglen and "Didi" Vlasto in the doubles match which Suzanne said yesterday would decide the championship in the present tournament.

The score was 3-6, 9-7, 6-2.

Suzanne's defeat eliminates her from the women's doubles competition. It is the first time since 1919 that the French champion has been defeated in doubles at Wimbledon.

One year Suzanne did not compete, but, partnered with Elizabeth Ryan, she won six of the seven women's doubles championships here since 1919. Miss Ryan today was on the other side of the net.

Lenglen was somewhat nervous, occasionally netting. Miss Browne and Mlle. Vlasto were ragged, but Miss Ryan hammered Suzanne's backhand.

The crowd today withheld the ovation which usually greets Lenglen when she appears on the court.

King George and Queen Mary were not in the royal box for Lenglen's appearance. They attended the horse show at Olympia.

S. A. MAN WHO SAW
BIG DERBY RETURNS

Carlaris, winner of the Coffroth handicap, the Tijuana Derby and other important races at the Tijuana turf last winter, has a good chance of defeating Bubbling Over, victor in the Kentucky Derby, the first time these two "wonder horses" contest, in the opinion of Ira N. Thompson, local insurance agent, who was back in Santa Ana today after a six-week trip east.

Thompson witnessed Bubbling
Over's victory in the Kentucky Derby and saw Bagenbaggage and Boot to Boot, the other crack E.
F. Bradley three-year-olds, in their recent triumphs.

"Both Carlaris and Bubbling Over are nursing injuries at present," Thompson said, "but there is a belief in Kentucky that they will meet at Raceland early next month. Bubbling Over is a high class colt but I believe Carlaris can beat him if he can train to his Tijuana form."

DEMPSEY CELEBRATES 31ST BIRTHDAY; HAS BEEN CHAMP LONGER THAN PREDECESSORS

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—Jack Dempsey, at the age of 31, has established a record for holding the world's heavyweight championship longer than any fighter who has gone before. The champion celebrated his 31st birthday today.

Old-time sportsmen recalled that James J. Jeffries at this age was the retired champion of the heavyweights. Dempsey, on the other hand, has no intention of resigning for several years to come, he declared today.

It is nearly seven years since he won the title by knocking out Jess Willard.

"I believe I am in just as good physical condition today as I was seven years ago," said the champion. "I am training daily for my proposed match with Gene Tunney in September. I can polish off for this bout in two months."

Dempsey's last defense of his title was his spectacular fight with Luis Firpo, the Argentine, in September, 1923.

Other challengers he has disposed of since winning the crown were Georges Carpentier, French idol;
the late Bill Brennan and Tommy Gibbons, of St. Paul.

The champion will be guest of honor tonight at a private dinner party at the Barbara hotel, which his owns. Estelle Taylor, his actress-wife, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dempsey, brother and sister-in-law, and the champion's mother, will be among the guests.

Santa Ana Clubs
In County Loop
Clash Tomorrow

Fifth round contests Friday in the Orange County Indoor Baseball league will bring together at Lincoln park here two of the principal contenders for titular honors—Santa Ana's own entries, the Junior Chamber of Commerce and American Legion teams.

Still undefeated, the Chamber of Commerce representatives are holding undisputed possession of first place. The Legion men can go into a tie for the lead by whipping their local rivals.

"Eney" Wilcox is almost certain to go to the ridge for the American Legion while the Chamber of Commerce will rely on either Horace Snow or "Tex" Bergman.

The tournament of the Western Canada Cricket Association to be held at Edmonton in early August is expected to give great impetus to the sport in the Canadian West.

TOMMY O'BRIEN FLOORS ADAMS THRICE, WINS ONE-SIDED MAIN EVENT AT VERNON

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—Three knockdowns and hard punches that landed often gave Tommy O'Brien, one of the leading lightweights on the coast, a 10-round decision over Johnny Adams, San Bernardino favorite, at the Olympic auditorium last night.

O'Brien's margin over Adams at the finish was big. He landed 10 clean blows for every one that Adams put in. Three times Adams went to the canvas, but on each occasion he bounced right up to rush O'Brien and fall into a clinch.
Adams went down in the second,
seventh and ninth rounds.

The San Bernardino boy elected to rush O'Brien most of the time.
He swarmed all over Tommy but was always tied up in a clinch when he got in too close. He used swelling tactics throughout the match and probably averted a knockout by employing this method.

O'Brien took at least seven of the rounds and Adams could not be credited for all the remaining three.

Paul de Haze, French welterweight, won from young Harry Wills, of San Diego, on a foul in the fourth round of the scheduled six round semi-windup.

INVADER AHEAD IN RACE TO HONOLULU

HONOLULU, T. H., June 24.—
Salt-stung eyes scanned the sea off Diamond Head today in hope of sighting the white speck which would denote the arrival of Don Lee's Invader, which at last radio reports was skimming under a favorable breeze to victory in the annual Los Angeles-Honolulu speed yacht race.

A navy seaplane, scouting an area of 30 miles radius off Diamond Head, late yesterday reported sighting a sail believed to be that of the Invader, scratch entry in the yacht classic.

The Invader was then estimated to be 50 miles off Diamond Head.
At the same time the Pointsettia reported her position at 120 miles off shore, having traveled 167 miles during her receding 24 hours.

GATTON KAYOED IN WILMINGTON SCRAP

Paul Parrish, late of Oklahoma, made a very impressive showing in his first California fight at Wilmington last night when he knocked out Hank Gatton, Santa Ana light heavyweight, in the sixth round.

Parrish knocked Gatton down six times, three in the fifth round and three in the closing frame.

Lee Barclay knocked out Jack Kearns in the first round of the semi-windup.

ST. ANNE'S ON THE SEA,
England, June 24.—Bobby Jones
and "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, amateur
and professional, respectively, today wrestled the lead from their fellow American, Walter Hagen, in
the second round of the British
Open Golf tournament.

Mehlhorn's 74, coupled with yesterday's 70, put him ahead with an aggregate of 144 and Jones, with two rounds of 72, had the same
total. Hagen was a stroke behind,
having slumped today with a 77 as compared with yesterday's startling 68.

Hagen, premier American professional golfer, was unable to keep up the terrific pace today which marked his play in yesterday's open championship round.

With a final 36 holes to be played
tomorrow, Hagen's aggregate was 145 and several of yesterday's leaders had an excellent chance to
pass him.

It was another field day for the Americans. Three others, in addition to Jones, Mehlhorn and Hagen,
broke 150. They were Al Watrous
and Freddy McLeod with 148 each,
and George Von Elm, California,
with 147.

Behind this sextette came two other Americans, tied with two British golfers for seventh place
with 150. They were Archie Compton and Thomas Barber, (British)
and Cyril Walker and Tommy Armour, (American).

The final 36 holes will be played
tomorrow, with only those finishing within 45 strokes of Jones and Mehlhorn remaining in the tournament. Two young American amateurs, Watts Gunn and Roland
MacKenzie, thus are eliminated because their scores for the first 36
were respectively 162 and 163.

Cyril Tolley, British amateur,
was another well known golfer
forced out.

Jim Barnes, the defending champion and Joe Kirkwood barely kept in the competition with aggregates
of 157.

MURDERER TO BE HANGED IN FOLSOM PRISON

SACRAMENTO, June 24.—Felix Sloper, slayer of George Campbell, San Francisco policeman, during an attempted bank robbery, sentenced to go to his death at Folsom prison at 10 a. m., Friday, will be the 53rd man to face the hangman's noose at that institution. But the phantoms which have preceded him to the gallows at California's state penal institutions number more than that. One hundred and twenty-four murderers have walked that shadowy interim from the death cell to the scaffold and trap at San Quentin, bringing the total lives snuffed out at state prisons to 176.

So the men who have sought to beat the dangling hangman's noose have lost at the average rate of five a year since California passed a law in 1891 that the death penalty be exacted at state prisons rather than by peace officers in the counties. Of examples in how to face inevitable death bravely, nonchalantly, there have been many. Examples, too, in that ghostlike file there have been of men who went cringing to the death chamber.

Chin Han, "king of the high-binders," the first man to pay the death penalty at Folsom, died with a smile on his lips. He was hanged on December 13, 1895, for the murder of Lee Gong, Sacramento cigar merchant, who had been marked for death by the Ping Hong tong.

At San Quentin, the first man to face the gallows went bravely to his trial with death. He was Joe Gabriel, hanged March 3, 1893, for beating to death Mr. and Mrs. Geiser, at Otay, San Diego county.

The Indian arose from the pallet or straw which had been his last resting place on earth and marched stolidly toward the gallows. Both the tong murderers, Chin Han, and Gabriel accepted the spiritual solace offered by prison clerics.

Folsom prison saw its last hanging Oct. 10, 1925, when Alfred Bollinger was executed for the ax murder of Alex Summers, at Nigger Jack slough, near Marysville.

CANADA GUARDS ART OF INDIANS FROM VANDALS

VICTORIA, B. C., June 24.—Canada is moving at last to prevent American collectors from taking home with them the few remaining relics of the red man's former glory.

Federal and provincial laws will be enforced drastically in British Columbia this year to curb the enthusiasts who have denuded this country of every totem pole, Indian carving and historical object they could lay hands on. From now on the Indians will not be allowed to barter away their family heirlooms, no matter how attractive the prices which American collectors are willing to pay.

This will be accomplished by a systematic protection of historical objects while there is yet time to protect them. The British Columbia government will declare all the relics it sees fit to be historical objects and then they cannot be removed without government sanction.

To Guard Totem Poles
The first relics to be guarded in this way will be the last of the magnificent totem poles which the native artists of this coast carved years ago to report the deeds of their families, tribes and nations. Thousands of these native works of art have been shipped to the United States, whole villages being stripped of their weird historical records.

This will be bad news for many private collectors and American museums. Last year many American institutions devoted to historical subjects had parties here buying up totem poles and other rare native carvings—some of the finest art produced by the North American Indian. The price of these things has risen as the Indians have realized their value, but they have been sold still at ridiculously low prices until today there are few left.

The modern Indian is utterly incapable of equaling the work of his grandfather with chisel and paint. He can carve quaint little souvenirs, but the towering totem poles, hewn out of straight cedar trees centuries ago, never can be replaced.

Laws Against Vandalism
The new laws to be enforced here also will protect historical objects from vandalism. These measures are prompted by the ruthless marking of Indian carvings which are considered of priceless historical value. At several places in British Columbia tourists have carved their initials in rocks beside some of the oldest native art known in America. In other places these ancient stone carvings, the work of a race long forgotten, have been ruined by crude disfigurements.

Amateur art of this kind will be punished severely in the future. In the same way it will be illegal to remove any such object, however unimportant or small it may appear. Meanwhile the British Columbia authorities are seeking to preserve an adequate record of the Indian's art by amassing a large collection of his work in the provincial museum here. The collection already assembled is considered the best in existence. They indicate not only craftsmanship of a high order, but an imaginative faculty utterly beyond the present-day native.

The batsmen hit sharply to Lutzke at the pitcher. Seeing he was a sure out if he continued on to third, he started back to second with Lutzke in hot pursuit.

Lutzke touched Meusel out when within a few feet of second. Lazzeri, only a few feet away, realizing he would be retired if he continued on his way, retraced his steps to first.

Lutzke gave chase. Both slid into first base as Lutzke made a last effort to touch Lazzeri with the ball. The Yankees' second sacker overslid the base and was out.

Lutzke had completed a double play unassisted, retiring runners at second and first after fielding the batted ball at third.

LOUVRE MUST GIVE BACK ART OBJECTS

PARIS, June 24.—A curious lawsuit has just been concluded whereby the Louvre is ordered to give up some priceless art treasures and return them to the heirs of the man who was their original donor. The treasures are mostly sarcophagi, statues and vases from Syria, the amphora of Emese, some Phoenician antiquities and other valuable acquisitions which have been looked upon as public treasure for many years.

But they were originally given to the Louvre by M. Durighello, then French consul in Syria. An old law says that if children are born in the family of the donor he may provide for the return of gifts to his heirs. Durighello's will contained some such provision, it was found on his death.

NEWS FROM ORANGE COUNTY TOWNS

GAS WELL AT BEACH BEGINS PRODUCING OIL

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 24.—The Standard Oil company's Thompson No. 7 in the Huntington Beach field in the old producing district, which went on production about two weeks ago producing nothing but gas at the rate of about 10,000,000 cubic feet per day, has started making oil and simultaneously reducing its gas output, according to officials of the Standard.

At present the Thompson No. 7 is producing at the rate of about 150 barrels of oil per day, and about 4,500,000 cubic feet of gas. When the well was first completed, it attracted considerable attention because of the unusual spectacle of a large producer being brought in in an area where production has been going on for several years, and where the gas was supposed to be comparatively depleted.

Daughters Plan Santa Ana Picnic

ORANGE, June 24.—Plans for summer meetings were made yesterday by the Royal Daughters at their bi-monthly meeting in Barger's hall.

Starting with a pot-luck luncheon, the entertainment program featured Mrs. C. A. McGill in a series of vocal solos and two local girls in specialty dances.

A picnic will be held in Birch park, Santa Ana, next Wednesday. Those going will meet in Barger's hall at 10:45 a. m. on that day, according to plans.

Meetings during July and August will be held on the second Wednesday only instead of the second and fourth Wednesdays.

Wilson Picture To Be Exhibited In Westminster

WESTMINSTER, June 24.—The Rev. R. A. Weld, pastor of the Presbyterian church, announces that the Woodrow Wilson memorial film, will be presented June 28 at 7:30 p. m., with special musical accompaniment.

The scenes are announced as including the first inauguration, his private life in the White House, the second inauguration, the incidents leading up to the declaration of war, the drafting of soldiers, the signing of armistice, the famous trips abroad, the negotiation of the peace treaty, the return to America, the trip to the Pacific coast, the collapse, relinquishment of office, final illness, last public appearance, death and burial.

S. A. MAN GIVES FACTS ON MEXICO

ORANGE, June 24.—Robert Speed, manager of the Enterprise Publishing company, Santa Ana, addressed the local Lions club concerning Old Mexico at the weekly luncheon meeting yesterday at the Hotel Rochester. Speed brought out the fact that Mexico is perhaps the least known, of any nation in the world, because of the fear by travelers of becoming embroiled in political eruptions should they venture into the country any distance.

Joe Kazina, local radio artist, entertained the members with several selections on his banjo. C. W. Coffey was chairman of the day.

Final plans for the ladies' night and installation meeting next Wednesday were laid. A. P. M. Brown will be in charge of the program.

LAGUNA BEACH

LAGUNA BEACH, June 24.—Father's day and Mother's birthday came almost at once this year in the J. M. Murphy home, so the children arranged a celebration in honor of the two events. A chicken dinner with all the things that go along with it was served at the sons and daughters table.

Around the table were, in addition to the J. M. Murphys, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Murphy, Judge and Mrs. L. V. Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. James Sanborn Murphy and young son, Austin; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Ferguson and son, Hugh Grant, of Los Angeles. There were many gifts from the children to the elder Mr. and Mrs. Murphy.

The marriage of Miss Mildred Pierce, of Fullerton, to Fred L. Wilkins, of Laguna Beach, took place June 10 in Fullerton. The ceremony was performed before about 30 close friends of the couple, after which Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins motored to Laguna Beach, where they found a charming home awaiting them on Oak street.

Mrs. Wilkins is a member of the Laguna Beach Art association and is a frequent exhibitor in the art gallery. She has been a teacher in the Fullerton grammar school. Mr. Wilkins is a member of the firm of Joyce and Wilkins, building contractors.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. House have returned from a Mediterranean tour which lasted for some months. They opened their Laguna Beach home but have since gone to their Pasadena place for a short time. Mr. House is a brother of Colonel House of Wilson administration fame.

Fred A. Leach has returned from Soboba Hot Springs, where he has been resting for the last week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Kinney, Miss Annette Kinney, of Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. William Digby Hunt, of Hollywood, are house guests at "The Wickup," the home of Miss Ann B. Mason.

H. van Altmann is in San Francisco on a business trip.

Miss Alice Parker and Robert Parker, her brother, well known Laguna Beachers, will today leave for New York for a summer in England. Nottingham is the former home of the Parkers. Miss Parker and her brother expect to return to Laguna Beach this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard St. Clair, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Irvine sr. and Hugh Irvine jr. motored to the black beach country back of San Diego and caught a fine fish. They found the place too hot.

Mrs. Ida Randall Bolles has returned from Hollywood, where she supervised the hanging of several of her paintings in the foyer of the Plaza hotel, Hollywood. Mrs. Bolles sent over some landscapes as well as marines for which she is famous.

Mr. and Mrs. Durlin Brayton and Mr. and Mrs. Olyan Hall have been vacationing at Big Bear lake for the past two weeks.

Mrs. Daniel Trifon Middleton, N. Y., and Miss J. C. Trifon, of Lakewood, N. Y., are Laguna Beach visitors.

The marriage of Miss Marjory Madden to Franklin Adams on April 29, has been announced by Mrs. William George Madden. The wedding was scheduled for a later date but an unexpected vacation made the earlier date possible. The young couple will live in Los Angeles, where Mr. Adams is engaged in business.

Mrs. Lucy Chapman Lantz, Mrs. Allan Box jr., and Miss Dorothy Frances Lantz were hostesses Wednesday at a reception planned to honor the bride of Charles Chapman Lantz, the son of Mrs. Lucy Chapman Lantz and a brother of Mrs. Box and Miss Lantz. The affair was held at the Woman's Athletic club, Los Angeles.

HEAVY CROP OF AVOCADOS SEEN BY LA HABRANS

LA HABRA, June 24.—The heaviest avocado crop in the history of the state is now maturing on the trees, according to statements of leading growers. An examination of many of the numerous fine groves in this territory will bear out this statement, it is said.

Although the so-called "June drop" has been exceptionally heavy, the amount of fruit remaining on the trees is much heavier than ever before, and already many owners of avocado trees have reported broken limbs from the unusually heavy crop. Many of the trees have required propping in order to prevent breaking of limbs.

Avocado growers, as a rule, are enthusiastic about the future for this crop, which has been growing commercially in Southern California for only a few years. Many groves in La Habra are just reaching a good bearing stage, and the shipments this year will be much heavier than ever before. The growers of this section, seeing what the future has in store, already have taken preliminary steps looking toward the establishment of a packing house when it shall be necessary in the not distant future.

Growers are much encouraged over the progress made by the California Avocado exchange, recently organized. The membership is said to be steadily increasing. It will be one of the objects of this association to advertise and popularize the avocado through the middle west and eastern states, where it is but little known at present. A policy similar to that pursued by the co-operative citrus associations will be adopted, and the "pack" of all fruits will be regulated.

LOS ALAMITOS, June 24.—A barn dance is to be held in the new garage at the home of George H. Tinkham on Howard street, Saturday evening. A special invitation is extended to everyone to attend. The proceeds are to be used to purchase the new auditorium on the boulevard.

LIGHTING DISTRICT IS BEING PLANNED FOR WESTMINSTER; PAVING TO COMMENCE SOON

WESTMINSTER, June 24.—The local chamber of commerce directors met June 21 to complete plans for the formation of a lighting district in Westminster.

A committee composed of Dr. Richard Foster, L. W. Walker, and W. B. McCoy was appointed to call on the property owners in the proposed district to ascertain their wishes regarding the installation of the lights. Dr. Foster is presently working on this now. A petition will be circulated which will require the signatures of 25 of the property owners in the district before the matter can be voted upon. Only those in the proposed lighting area will be eligible to vote. The cost will be very small, the secretary of the chamber stated.

It is planned to have the lights along the boulevard, in the several different sub-divisions, one at the Presbyterian and one at the Methodist church.

Asked when the paving would be started to widen Westminster boulevard, Dr. Foster said it would not be long and would be completed not later than September.

SKILLMAN BUYS OUT S. A. PARTNER

FULLERTON, June 24.—W. H. Skillman, for the past 15 years co-owner with A. Vandermast, of Santa Ana, of the Skillman-Vandermast clothing store in this city, announced this morning the purchase of the Vandermast interest in the business and the opening of the store under his own name.

Mr. Skillman has been active manager of the store since its original opening and is prominently identified with many civic organizations and activities of the community.

BOLSA

BOLSA, June 24.—A half mile extension of the electric power line from the main boulevard line is assured for the district south from the Bolsa store corner and the residents along the road are eagerly awaiting this new improvement.

Six property owners have signed up for lights, these being Robert Richardson, Ave Ross, Earl Gardner, J. D. Shutt, George Harding and Mrs. Sarah Gardner. It has been promised by the company that the line will go through inside of a month.

Mr. and Mrs. John McMillan and family attended the commencement exercises of the Huntington Beach high school, of which class their son, Fred McMillan, was a member.

Wayne Richardson and Clyde Richardson began painting Earl Gardner's barn on the home ranch today.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Stroud and family and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Baur and family spent Sunday at the Elsinore, where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Morgan, also former Bolsa people. In the morning the men of the party enjoyed a rabbit hunt in the Elsinore hills, and the afternoon, bathing in the lake was the main feature.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Pollard and children left yesterday morning for several days' visit in San Diego.

Floyd Morris went to Taft on Tuesday morning for a short business trip.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Murdy were honored Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the Rebekah lodge. Expressions of regret over the intended departure of these members of the lodge for Los Angeles were voiced at a supper party after the meeting. The Murdys are having some difficulty in selecting a home for themselves in Los Angeles, and it may be that their going will be delayed on account of it.

Mrs. Floyd Morris, who was delegate to the Rebekah assembly, gave her official report on Tuesday night. There were no teachers' meeting Tuesday night at the church on account of the pastor being at the Presbytery in Newhall.

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Bechtel and son, Laurence, returned Tuesday afternoon from a two weeks' trip in northern California. They visited in Berkeley and Santa Cruz. Lake Tahoe and many other interesting points were also visited.

Mr. and Mrs. Clay Neubold are moving from Cedar street to the Wishart house on Cherry street, which was recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Burke.

Mrs. W. Greshner, and Grace and Bill Greshner, of Costa Mesa, visited Mr. and Mrs. W. B. McCoy Tuesday. Mrs. Greshner, who for almost two years has had a splendid class of piano pupils here, is forced to give them up on account of her moving to Costa Mesa. Miss Margaret Jessup, a conservatory graduate, is taking over her class.

The remodeling of the Sterling Price home is under way, the contractor, G. Snow, of Westminster, having begun work the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ross and family were entertained at dinner guests Sunday in the Orle Hare home at Westminster.

Thursday was Bobbie Ross' fourth birthday anniversary and in observance of the event, he entertained as his guests his cousin, Audrey, and Mary Lou Hare, of Westminster. Bobbie's mother had made him a lovely birthday cake in pink and white with candles of the required number, and this graced the refreshment table, which was set during the afternoon. Mrs. Orle Hare accompanied Mary Lou and was Mrs. Ross' guest for the afternoon.

The member of the Bolsa school board held a meeting one evening this week to talk over the selection of a teacher for the primary department, which last year was filled by Mrs. Orle Hare, of Westminster. Several applications for the position have been received by the trustees.

Louis Baur has completed some improvement work on his two small houses, just each of his own residence, which he intends to sell. Wayne Richardson, local painter, has just completed staining the two dwellings.

Mr. and Mrs. Glade Fuller were Pasadena visitors Sunday.

The Dr. Haish dwelling, which is rapidly and the finishing work will soon be under way.

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Hereafter, instead of soda, take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the soured waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles, any drugstore.—Adv.

6 DOGS FOUND POSSESSED AT LAGUNA BEACH

LAGUNA BEACH, June 24.—Five dogs have been found dead in the last few days as a result of eating poisoned meat put out by unknown persons. No arrests have been made as yet.

"Queen," a one-year old greyhound, and a valuable animal, and "Dick," a two-year old Airedale, both owned by Lynn Watkins, were found dead at the same time, and a little later, "Billy," a pure bred fox terrier owned by A. R. Burns, was found in the same neighborhood. Two other dead dogs were found on the beach.

The sanitary board was notified and the animals were removed and the police summoned.

People who possess valuable dogs and cats are guarding them carefully.

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, June 24.—Rabb Cavanah's toy French bulldog found third place in a dog show Saturday night at Long Beach.

EVENING SALUTATION

We have no pleasure in thinking of a benevolence that is only measured by its works. COMMISSION REAPPOINTED

We believe the Board of Supervisors was right in re-appointing the harbor commission. Re-appointment was necessary in order to proceed with any plan for again submitting harbor bonds to the voters of the county. The vote given the bonds fully justified re-submission of at least the proposal for building jetties.

We have not discussed the proposal with any member of the commission. We do not know what the commission will do, and probably the commission itself has had no opportunity to meet and discuss plans. There seems to be a general expectation, however, that the commission will bring in a report recommending that a proposal be submitted asking for an election to consider bonds for the jetties only.

Someone, without authority, suggested that bonds be submitted for $750,000 for the entrance. The proposal at the last election was $650,000. The suggestion of $750,000 seems to have been seized upon as feasible and final. The commission, however, has made no new survey and has no engineering report whereby it can be determined that $750,000 will be necessary to do the work.

Whether the amount to be asked is $650,000 or $750,000 or some other sum, it will be based entirely upon engineering advice and not upon the guesses of any number of men who may or may not be competent or acquainted with conditions. For ourselves, the Register is perfectly willing to leave the matter of the amount to the commission and its engineers.

But we do believe that a proposal to fix the entrance will carry. This was virtually proven at the election held June 10. Had No. 1 been separated from No. 2 at the polls as well as on the ballot, No. 1 would have carried.

FORTY YEARS TODAY!

We extend our congratulations today to the First National Bank of Santa Ana, to its officers and directors. It's forty years now since the bank officially opened its doors, forty years of banking service, forty years of community service.

For forty years, this bank has been the financial co-operator of thousands of successful farmers and business men. From its banking rooms has gone out a spirit of faith and optimism based on conservative business principles and sound good sense, a spirit that has permeated activities throughout the bank's business area.

No wonder this bank has faith in Santa Ana and its rich surrounding country. Has it not seen Santa Ana grow from 3,000 to 30,000? Has it not seen crashes come and go? Has it not seen vineyards wiped out, and orchards take their place? Has it not seen the pests that threatened the citrus groves of the land fought and controlled? And in spite of temporary setbacks and through trying vicissitudes has it not seen cactus and mustard patches turned into pasture, and broken pasture turned into hay and grain ranches, and stubble into beans, and bean lands into orchards, and orchards into oil fields?

Only forty years, and this land of ours has developed Santa Ana from a rough pioneer village into a city, with visions new and hopes undimmed, the cultivated areas for miles about from stock-growing to highly productive properties.

FELLOWSHIP AND EFFICIENCY

An 84-year-old traveling salesman, still on the job, whose experience covers 56 years, tells of a big change in his calling.

"The old-time welcome at hotel and home," he says, "the porter who gave you the glad hand at every railway station, the free display room for salesmen, all have passed. Efficiency drives them out. As traveling gets easier, a certain fellowship—the result, perhaps, of common suffering—wanes."

Having dropped a sentimental tear upon the grave of this lost fellowship, he adds:

"And what service we used to get! I best I've spent 30 years waiting for late trains. In those early days there wasn't such a thing as a fast train. Most of them were wood burners, stopping at every third woodpile for fuel. They stopped twice at every double house."

"In those days travel was real work. Many of the smaller towns were accessible only by stage coach or sleigh."

Fellowship or efficiency? Take your choice. Most people nowadays prefer the efficiency. That is why they have the service they have. Yet it is hard to lose the fellowship of older, cruder, slower days. Isn't there room for both? Must business lose the comradeship that formerly went with it? Can there not be comradeship along with speed and promptness?

NEWSPAPERS COMPARED

An American correspondent in Berlin, who wrote a decade ago that "the German press is a national calamity," says he is more than ever strengthened in that opinion.

He finds that a recent statement of his, to the effect that anyone who wants to be half-way informed about developments in Germany should read at least four Berlin newspapers, was too mild. You can read all the papers in Berlin, he says—and Berlin has more than New York—and still be "as far from any conception of what really has happened as if you had read none."

German newspapers simply do not print the news. If they do seem to attempt it, honestly, still the mode of presentation is unintelligible. They print great quantities of reading matter which contains little information. And what seems clear and direct may be false.

This indictment would probably stand for the press of most of the other European countries. Some print much professed news, and some little, but an American can seldom find out from them what is happening there or elsewhere in the world. English papers are less objectionable than others, perhaps, because less biased and less used as individual organs, but they overwhelm readers with dry masses of unimportant or uninteresting matter.

American newspapers have their faults, but they do print the news. Whether in metropolis or small town, the reader of his local paper seldom misses what is happening at home and throughout the world. The critics of our press should try reading foreign newspapers for a while, and see the difference.

Good Year for Fruit Growers

R. N. Wilson, former farm advisor of Riverside county and now director of the agricultural department of the California Development association, has made an interesting report on deciduous fruit conditions in California. This report follows a careful survey that was conducted under Mr. Wilson's direction. The report shows that for the first time in five years, carry-overs on all dried fruits are cleaned up, and with the exception of pears, canners have sold their entire stocks of fruits. This situation accounts for the fact that apricot growers are contracting for $50 per ton for their crops.

Various factors have contributed to bring about the situation of clean shelves. California in 1925 had a greater share than ever before of the nation's foreign trade, and our dried and canned fruit industry participated generously in the foreign demand. Added to this, the buying power at home was tremendously increased by the general upward trend of business and the steadiness of employment. Shortages in some of the crops gave prices the impetus that comes from scarcity. And to coordinate all these conditions, sales were stimulated to a greater degree than heretofore by advertising.

It is a cheerful situation for the farmer. Canners will need a large volume of fresh fruit to complete their stocks and there are no dried fruits in the warehouses to affect the movement of the new supply.

An intensive selling campaign enabled the raisin growers to dispose entirely of the hold-over stocks. Nearly double the quantity of raisins was shipped from California last year over the year before. And the 1925 export value of this crop was $2,694,487 over that of 1924.

The important thing, however, was the cleaning up of the old stocks that the new crop might find a ready market. And it is good to hear that what we know of the raisin crop is true also of the apple, the apricot, the peach, the prune and the other fruits we can or dry. That means a clear market for the ripening fruit crop in California.

A Noble Work Started

America leads, we are frequently informed, in the production and use of the modern bathtub; yet, not satisfied with this hygienic pre-eminence, the department of commerce has determined to tackle the bathtub question in a big way, with a view to standardizing bathtub models—and at this point, of course, professional jesters insert assorted allusions to Joyce Hawley, ginger ale, etc. Quite seriously though, the department hopes to effect in this department some of the economies which have been introduced into other great industries by means of standardization.

Better and cheaper bathtubs, fewer styles, fewer freaks and oddities, fewer odd or obsolete styles of bathtubs—with all this we are in hearty accord. We hope, however, that the standard bathtub of the future will be designed to eliminate some of the minor defects apparent in this common appliance today.

The reformers ought, for instance, to eliminate altogether the baby grand or vest pocket bathtub which is to be found in so many apartments today—an article which is as ornamental as can be, but so small that a normal human being finds it impractical for anything except babies, dogs, home brew, or other uses more or less removed from its ostensible purpose. We hold it a self-evident and irreducible truth that a real bathtub ought to be big enough for the tenant to sit down in without skinning his knees on the faucets; and we trust that the department of commerce will cling to this fundamental.

There are other suggestions—for example, the adoption of a non-skid fabric for the bathtub's interior—which we shall be glad to place at the department's disposal if it requests them. A stamped envelope should be inclosed for reply.

PREVENTION OF LOCKJAW
The symptoms of tetanus are varied. The disease usually develops in from six to 16 days.

When lockjaw develops within six days in a man the disease is almost invariably fatal. The milder cases of tetanus usually require a longer period for development and such patients may recover.

There are a number of cases of slow development on record where recovery has taken place even without the use of antitoxin now so generally administered in tetanus infection.

One of the most noticeable symptoms of tetanus is marked stiffness of the neck and the lower jaw. This is why the disease is called lockjaw. When a person has received a lacerated wound which has been much soiled by dirt or dust; or a puncture wound from a nail or garden instrument or household utensil, he should be taken to a doctor to determine whether he should receive an injection of antitetanic serum.

These injections should be repeated at intervals of a week until three doses have been given. Wounds, however insignificant, may be contaminated and should always be thoroughly cleaned. Puncture wounds or lacerated wounds should be opened and care should be taken to remove every piece of foreign matter.

If gun wadding or other foreign material has been driven into the wound don't attempt to clean the wound yourself, take the patient at once to a doctor. Prompt cleaning of a wound is almost as important as thorough cleaning, so don't delay. You should also know that tetanus antitoxin is a reliable and trustworthy preventive. If any doubts existed on this score prior to 1920, the experience of the armies during the war has demonstrated the effectiveness of this treatment.

Antitoxin should be administered before the symptoms of lockjaw occur. The reason for this is that after tetanus toxin has combined with the motor nerve cells in the central nervous system it cannot be displaced with antitoxin.

Antitoxin should, however, be administered if the patient has shown symptoms of the disease, to prevent further danger. The most important fact for you to remember is that tetanus antitoxin should be administered just as soon as possible.

The Champion

Lincoln and Education

Columbus Dispatch

A professor in the University of California, intent on assailing the educational methods of today, asserts that "if Lincoln had had knowledge heaped on him in the manner that it is heaped upon modern youths, his brain would have become so befuddled as to be useless to him."

In the changes that have come over the colleges and universities since Lincoln's youth, there is much that may well be questioned. The real question, however, is not what these new educational conditions and methods would do to the type of brain which Abraham Lincoln possessed, but what the effect is upon the type of brain and character making up the large body of our college and university students of today.

Lincoln, of course, did not have the advantages of even the simpler educational methods of the older day. He had the type of mind that thirsts for knowledge, however, and he made his way to it, as best he could. That mind was backed up, too, by certain fundamental traits of character which would have had their effect, even though circumstances and opportunities had been different. And it was not the type of mind and character likely to be befuddled by greater and more varied opportunities than it could use.

Rather, if Lincoln could have been introduced into a school of any such varied opportunities as are to be found in many schools of today, he would have picked the pathway that seemed best suited to his underlying purposes and pressed steadily upward along that pathway, too deeply absorbed to be bothered or befuddled by other pathways at either side. And there are thousands of college students who are doing just that today, in spite of other thousands of educational fritters and loafers. We need not bother ourselves about the Lincolns. It is another type of student that deserves our anxious solicitude.

Worth While Verse

TO ALINE

From what old ballad, or from what rich frame
Did you descend to glorify the earth?
Was it from Chaucer's singing book you came
Or did Watteau's small brushes give you birth?

Nothing so exquisite as that slight hand Could Raphael or Leonardo trace.
Nor could the poets know in Fairyland
The changing wonder of your lyric face.

I would possess a host of lovely things
But I am poor and such joys may not be
So God who lifts the poor and humble kings
Sent loveliness itself to dwell with me.

Committee of 1000 Assails Proposed Wet Poll

From the New York Times

A resolution characterizing the prohibition referendum question, as framed for submission to the voters in this state next November, as "obscure, deceptive and confusing" and declaring the referendum to be unworthy of the "sincere and respectful consideration and action of the law-abiding voters of New York State," was made public yesterday by the Citizens Committee of One Thousand for Law Enforcement. The resolution was adopted by the Executive Committee of the organization at a special meeting at its headquarters at 66 Fifth Avenue.

The Resolution Adopted

The resolution follows: "Whereas there will be submitted to the voters of New York State at the general election next November this referendum question: Should the Congress of the United States modify the Federal act to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment so that the same shall not prohibit the manufacture, sale, transportation, importation and exportation of beverages which are not, in fact, intoxicating, as determined in the laws of the respective states?"

"(1) The meaning and intent of said question is obscure, deceptive and confusing.

"(2) Any action on said question by the voters will be futile.

"(3) Said question provides for asking Congress to take an action which if taken would be unconstitutional and illegal.

"(4) The submission of said referendum question is not an attempt, legally and in an orderly and constitutional manner, to change existing national law, but is clearly an attempt, instigated largely by those who favor the evasion and nullification of provisions of our national constitution and law, to weaken and break down the enforcement and observance of those provisions.

"(5) This referendum does not afford the voters of the state an opportunity to record their respective views in an honest and sincere effort legally and in an orderly and constitutional manner to change existing national law.

"(6) More important than any question of prohibition or of the modification or repeal of the Volstead law or of the Eighteenth Amendment is the question whether in this country, including the state of New York, orderly and constitutional government is to be maintained.

"(7) There are orderly and constitutional methods of modifying or repealing the Volstead law and Eighteenth Amendment which would be effective if such modification or repeal were desired by the voters of the country. These are the methods which should be followed by those desiring such modifications or repeal; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the attitude of this committee is that this referendum is not entitled to the sincere and respectful consideration and action of the law-abiding voters of New York State; that it deserves their rebuke as being deceptive, insincere and subversive of representative and constitutional government; and be it further

"Resolved, That we urge the voters of the Empire State, with its vast personal property and public interests, irrespective of their views on prohibition, to protest against such form of governmental action as this referendum involves; and be it further

"Resolved, That we call upon the voters of the State with love for and loyalty to the country and commonwealth and their institutions firmly to stand for the maintenance and observance of law and for orderly, honest and legal methods in making desired changes in the law."

Members at the Meeting

The meeting at which the resolutions were adopted was attended by the following executive committee members:

About California

When you tell your eastern friend that California is the most productive state in the Union, and the one possessed of the most diversified resources, it may be necessary to produce your evidence. In that event the authentic and properly verified figures prepared by the California Real Estate Board will be of value. The figures are unquestionably correct, and the Real Estate Board has certainly done a good work for the whole state by making them public. They show that California leads all other states in the Union in the following:

In the production of oranges, 62 per cent of U. S. total.

Lemons, 100 per cent of U. S. total.

Grapes, 87 per cent of U. S. total.

Peaches, 23 per cent of U. S. total.

Asparagus, 56 per cent of fresh asparagus, 99 per cent of canning asparagus.

Cantaloupes, 52 per cent of U. S. total.

Cauliflower, 48 per cent of U. S. total.
